Students crowned homecoming king/queen for a day

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Pam King was shocked, to say the least, when she was handed a bouquet of yellow roses at the Friday night homecoming game.

It was halftime and King was one of five girls selected for the homecoming court. The yellow roses meant her classmates had selected her as homecoming queen.

"I was very surprised and very happy," King said. A party after the game was in order and King celebrated all weekend long.

There was the game, the party afterward, the dance Saturday and there were plenty of telephone calls to and from friends.

Then Monday it was back to school, but the excitement hasn't worn down for the 17-year-old senior.

"It's been wonderful," King said. "A lot of people congratulate me as a I walk down the hall, but they don't really treat me any differently."

King, the daughter of James and Vickie King, is keeping her roses alive along with her excitement.

"I put the roses in the freezer so they will keep for awhile," she said.

King is a member of the National Honor Society and she is manager of the wrestling team.

"I was a wrestlerette in ninth grade and they asked me to be a manager," she said.

King plans to attend Western Michigan University where she will study child psychology.

King is crowned

Rick Champagne wasn't exactly dressed for the occasion when he was crowned Romulus High School Homecoming

King. But to some, his attire was the most appropriate of all for the honor.

Champagne, a player on the Romulus football team, took his place on the field at half-time Friday dressed in his football uniform. He had already been selected as a finalist for the royal title. But when his name was called as king, Champagne was shocked.

"I was really surprised to be picked," Champagne said.

A 17-year-old senior, Champagne is trying to flag down a football scholarship to help with college finances. Once in college, he said, psychology will probably be his course of study.

"I like psychology now," Champagne said. "I'm just not sure if it's what I want to do all the time."

Right now, however, King Champagne is relishing the Recreation issue could be placed on spring ballot

By RAY DAY

A recreation center in Romulus is one step closer to reality, after city and school officials agreed in concept Monday night to a tentative bond proposal that would appear before voters this spring.

City and school officials met for a third meeting of a recreation center advisory panel, a group formed last year by several citizens expressing a need for a recreation facility in the city. Members of the panel gathered Monday night at the Romulus City Hall.

Informally proposed was a joint ballot request by both the city and schools to build a recreation facility near the city civic center and a swimming pool at the high school. The recreation center would be financed and operated by the city, while the pool would be funded and managed by school officials, according to the proposal.

The idea of a joint-recreation venture between the school district and city was proposed by school board member Dan Bales. The concept was quickly accepted by Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally, City Council Chairperson MaryAnn Banks and several other school board members present.

In the plan, city officials would place on the ballot a request to issue bonds to finance construction of an estimated 49,000-square-foot recreation center. A millage-increase request would also be placed before voters for ongoing operation costs of the facility.

Total cost for the center is estimated at approximately $5 million, according to McAnally.

School officials, in turn, would seek a bonding proposal to finance construction of the swimming pool, which would be located at the high school and be open to the public. Included in this bonding proposal, Bedell said, would be a request for ongoing funding to operate the pool.

However, school-district involvement in the project would be possible only if voters approve two millage transfers which will appear on the Nov. 8 general election ballot, according to Dr. William Bedell, superintendent of schools. If the millage requests are rejected—and subsequent cuts in school programs are made—a new swimming pool for the district could not be considered, Bedell said.

Construction of a swimming pool is estimated by school officials at $4.8 million. Annual operating costs have been predicted at $60,000.

In earlier talks, city officials had considered adding a swimming pool to the city recreation center, regardless of school officials' plans to build a pool at

Bush jogs with students at Romulus Junior High

Vice President George Bush was expected to jog with a few Romulus students this morning at Romulus Junior High School.

The presidential hopeful was in town for a campaign stop in the Detroit area. He arrived Tuesday night and stayed at the Metro Airport Hilton hotel, according to Dr. William Bedell, Romulus superintendent of schools.

Bedell was notified of Bush's visit Monday by campaign officials and was asked if the Vice President could take his daily 3-mile jogging trek on the junior high school track. The campaign official said she once lived near the junior high and remembered the existence of the jogging path.

The campaign worker also asked if Bedell could send a few high school students to jog with Bush, since none of the campaign workers could last the entire three miles, Bedell said.

Students were asked to report to the track at 7 a.m., according to Thomas Dolan, Romulus Senior High School principal.

$1 billion Metro Centre project delayed by overpass

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

The future of the estimated $1 billion Metro World Centre, in Romulus, remains in the hands of the Federal Highway Administration, which must approve funding and construction of an overpass at I-94 and Vining Road, city officials said this week.

The project is still on hold, a delay which has also put a crimp in public-improvement plans in the Wick Road area, where the project will be located, according to Dennis Oakes, Romulus economic development director.

Approval of the interchange is necessary, Oakes said, to put the gears in motion not only for the Metro World Centre but also for an adjacent office-complex development and for the city to secure added funding for public improvements in the area.

The Metro World Centre was proposed in 1984 by Florida developer E. Llywd Eccelstone Jr. and partner Donald Marentette, a Troy-based real estate broker. Projects details were revealed in February, details which included a 1,000-acre project of 9.2 million square feet of commercial and industrial buildings. The center would include a major hotel-conference center, World College, office space for business and research, a commercial area and two small lakes. City officials say it will create 40,000 jobs.

The project is bounded by I-94, Merriman Road, Wayne Road, Ecorse Road and Henry Ruff.

The plan has been revised since it was originally announced, Oakes said, because 300 acres of the land originally thought to be owned by Eccelstone are actually owned by local developer Wendell C. Flynn.

Flynn, to date, has not expressed an interest in participating in the Metro World Centre project.

Also changed are the estimated costs of providing public improvements before any development begins.

"Things have changed really in the last few weeks. We had our consultant do a revised cost breakdown for the plan," Oakes said.

City officials had originally counted on the Michigan Department of Transportation and federal officials to fund the entire overpass project. However, because state funding is unlikely, Romulus officials have agreed to foot one-half of the bill to construct access ramps, and the project developer will foot the other one-half.

Construction costs for the overpass—estimated at 9 million by city officials—are being left to the federal government. Public-improvements in the area are being financed by a Tax Increment Finance Authority. In a designated TIFA area, public improvements can be made and financed using TIFA-issued bonds. The borrowed funds are repaid using "captured" revenues on all new taxes generated in that district.

Originally, city officials talked of issuing $5 million in bonds to fund improvements in the Metro World Centre area. Based on calculated 1989 "captured revenues," up to $5.6 million could currently be borrowed, Oakes said.

However, city officials are already committed to funding $3.8 million in current improvements in the Wickham Road/Smith Road area. Public improvements for the Metro World project would total $1.9 million for the Vining Road overpass access ramps and improvements to Vining Road and another $8.9 million for improvements to Henry Ruff and Wick Road and the extension of Vining and Smith roads.

Thus, the $5.6 million in TIFA bonds would not fund the improvements needed before Eccelstone will break ground on the Metro World Centre, Oakes said.

However, if federal officials approve the overpass construction, Eccelstone has said he will sign an agreement committing himself to the project, and the city could borrow at least an additional $8.2 million. The added funding would allow the necessary public improvements to be made, Oakes said.

In addition, a 450,000-square-foot project by the Lennar company would also be secure—and allow the borrowing of an extra $2.8 million—if the Vining Road overpass were approved, Oakes said.

"It looks optimistic, but . . . We've got state approval, but that's taken the better part of two years," Oakes said.

Surplus food giveaway set

Surplus flour, butter and cornmeal will be distributed to eligible Van Buren Township residents at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at the Van Buren Township Hall. The food giveaway is designed to aid low-income residents.

Future food distributions will be staged every other month until further notice, township officials said.

AIDS forum is set in Wayne

An AIDS education conference with several local businesses and community agencies has been set for Saturday, Nov. 5 in the discussatorium of the Wayne County Intermediate School District, 33500 Van Born Road, Wayne.

Speakers will include local AIDS experts, school officials and county health-department officials.

Preregistration cost is $5. After Oct. 22, cost is $7.50.

Information regarding the event is being coordinated through the First United Methodist Church, in Wayne. Call 721-4801.

Runway lights guidelines set

A letter of agreement between Willow Run Airport and the Federal Aviation Administration will allow the airport to maintain a runway lighting system.

The agreement was approved by members of the Wayne County Commission Oct. 6.

When a new procedure is to be developed, the FAA and the airport form an agreement, said Bill Sandifer, airport operations supervisor at Willow Run. The agreement must then be approved.

Sandifer said the runway lighting system, comprised of rows of lights along the edge of each runway, is used only when the airport tower is closed, something which "never" happens.

Strategic plan set for November

Officials of the Wayne County Intermediate School District have initiated a strategic planning process that will result in a five-year plan to serve the needs and challenges of local districts.

The plan will include organizational beliefs, a mission statement, goals, strategies and action plans.

Needs assessments are being conducted with local districts and WCISD staff, as well as with business and industry leaders. A planning team will review the data and develop major components of the plan in late November.

Action teams will develop specific plans to achieve the goals. Recommendations will be made to the WCISD Board of Education in June 1989.

Police issues opposed by conference

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

A proposed mandatory training program for local lockups was opposed by members of the Conference of Western Wayne at an Oct. 14 meeting.

The decision was made following a recommendation from Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro.

"The Western Wayne County Chiefs of Police have long recognized the need for professionalism in the corrections field," said Santomauro.

"However, the proposed rule for mandating training for local lockups, accomplishes absolutely nothing in reduction of vicarious liability or enhancing the management and policies of local lockups.

"In fact, these proposed rules, in our opinion, are not only unnecessary, but costly to our agencies."

Santomauro added that western Wayne County chiefs of police further object to attempts to regulate training for their police agencies.

"It is our opinion that any training mandates for our agencies should be through the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council," he said.

Conference of Western Wayne members also opposed Lein Datamaxx Terminal User Fees.

Governor James Blanchard recently signed the Michigan State Police Budget Bill which includes a section calling for an increase in Lein user fees by $1,200 for each agency utilizing the Lein mainframe computer.

The increase will be the responsibility of each local unit.

Both opposition votes passed unanimously.

Businessman dies at age 79

John Edward Nothnagel, 79, longtime owner of the Wayne Music Center on Michigan Avenue in Wayne, died Thursday morning at his house in Dayton, TN.

Nothnagel was a member of Rotary International and the Wayne Chamber of Commerce. He was also a member of the First Baptist Church in Wayne, where he served as a deacon, trustee, church moderator and Sunday school superintendent.

Nothnagel also served as chairman of the church building commission.

"He was one of key people responsible for that beautiful church in Wayne," said Norman Vernon, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

"He was a very active man in the church. He was one of the most faithful men I've ever known and anyone who has known him would agree," Vernon said.

Nothnagel is survived by his wife, Lillian; his daughter, Velma Meissner of Dayton, TN; a son, Ronald E. Nothnagel of Boulder, CO; five grandchildren; five great grandchildren; one brother; and four sisters.

Funeral services took place Saturday at Bennett Chapel of Bryan College in Dayton, TN. Memorial donations may be directed to Bryan College of Dayton or the First Baptist Church of Wayne.

Jail-site selection is next step for county

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

An Illinois firm has been selected as project programmer for the new Wayne County jail.

If approved by Wayne County Commissioners, Moyer Associates Inc. of Glencoe, IL, will begin work on what is being called the "foundation" of the new 840-bed facility.

County Executive Edward McNamara has negotiated a $140,000 professional services contract with the firm, with reimbursements for materials not to exceed $25,000, according to Barb Rickert, press secretary for McNamara.

The firm is expected to start work within two weeks and will submit its report in eight to 10 weeks.

The first step is now complete, McNamara said, and no time will be wasted in building the new facility.

"I have confidence that Moyer Associates Inc. will do an outstanding job for the county," McNamara said.

The new jail facility will be paid for with funds generated from a voter-approved millage increase.

It will be the job of the project programmer to coordinate every aspect of jail construction from design to actual building.

The project programmers report will include an operating budget, a timetable, and spatial restrictions, Rickert said.

Moyer Associates Inc. will study current facilities, interview jail workers and determine future inmate needs in order to compile the report.

While county officials await approval of commissioners, they are busy taking the next step, Rickert said.

Individuals are being interviewed for the position of project manager. The position could be filled within the week.

The project manager will be responsible for keeping the jail project within the set budget.

A developer is scheduled for selection by Nov. 15.

It is the developer selection which will be key to selecting a jail site. Developers will, if they wish, include in their bids a proposed site for the facility. According to Rickert, it is not a requirement of bidding companies.

If county officials approve a bid which includes a site, that site will be used. If not, county officials will have to select their own site.

The Eloise property in Westland tops the list of possible jail sites. McNamara has said that it would be cost efficient because the county already owns the land and there would be easy access from the jail to the courts downtown.

Westland city officials have said they will fight any move to put the jail on that site, which is being studied as an industrial park.

McNamara has said that if that site is chosen, there is little the city could do to stop it.

Ecorse is also being considered as a home for the jail.

The new jail is expected to be ready for prisoners by late 1990 or early 1991.

In the meantime, relief from the current jail overcrowding will come when the county completes the 230-bed expansion of the existing jail building.

Airport noise reduction eyed

Romulus city officials are continuing to meet with Detroit Metropolitan Airport and county officials to discuss a reduction in noise impact from the airport.

Mayor Beverly McAnally sits on the Wayne County Advisory Group on Noise Issues, while city planner Sally Hodges serves on a technical task force.

Members of the WCAGNI have formulated several recommendations they say would reduce noise impact for area homeowners. These include preferential runway use, modified flight patterns, restrictions on ground run-ups (engine running), flight-training restrictions, installation of a possible 40-foot berm around parts of the airport, noise monitoring and a better noise complaint mechanism.

In addition, air traffic altitudes, plane types and location of runways could help abate the noise problem, airport officials said.

Next step in the process is to determine the costs associated with implementing the proposals, county officials said.

City clerk to wear new hat

Romulus City Clerk Linda Choate was appointed treasurer Associating during a meeting Monday.

Association members met at the Days Inn, in Romulus, for their monthly meeting. Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally addressed the group, expressing her gratitude for an efficient city clerk.

The group includes city clerks from throughout the Wayne County area.

Grade-school ghosts Halloween party aids in student safety

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

The homework assignment for some Romulus elementary students Halloween night might be to catch a ghost or chase away a goblin or two. That task would be in conjunction with the Halloween party being staged in at least three area schools, in conjunction with the Romulus Recreation Department.

Such a party is already set that evening at Cory, Halecreek and Hayti elementary schools. Wick Elementary might also be a site, according to Debbie Dick, Romulus Recreation Department director.

In the third year, the program is designed to ensure a safe Halloween for kids and their parents, Dick said. City officials ask that participating schools keep the buildings open for a period Halloween evening and offer activities for the students.

In turn, the city provides food, refreshments and plenty of treats — all of which have been checked by the Romulus Police Department the day before the party.

"Usually, it's the PTA at the school that has the hall party. We help out with the refreshments," Dick said. "We usually furnish hot dogs, drink and donuts."

"The reason for this is that Halloween is not a safe holiday any more. We're trying to encourage the schools to help make it safe by sponsoring the party. We want to bring the fun back into Halloween," Dick continued.

Last year, all four elementary schools considered this year were party sites. An estimated 750 students and their parents took advantage of the event.

Cost to the city is between $600 and $700, which is a good investment toward child safety, Dick said.

Halloween party times and events at each school include (all will be staged Monday, Oct. 31):

• Cory Elementary, open 6 to 8 to 8 p.m. Two rooms will be haunted. Event is open to all students and those invited from other schools. Sponsored by the PTO, the event is free of charge.

"It's been very successful in the past," said Cory Principal Peter Silveri. "Most parents look at it as an alternative to trick-and-treat."

• Halecreek Elementary, 5:30 to 7 p.m. "Haunted halls" is the theme. Sponsored by the PTA, the event will feature parents dressed as scary as possible. They will sit in rooms and, with only hall lights on, pass out candy as the kids pass by.

Admission is by ticket only. Cost is $1.50 — advance only. The event is open to Halecreek students and their parents.

Babysitting services will also be provided.

• Hayti Elementary, plans not yet finalized. Details will be printed next week.

• Wick Elementary, plans to participate not yet finalized. More information will be printed next week.

Teen health needs analyzed by group

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

The health needs of Romulus teens are continuing to be studied by members of a subcommittee of the Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee.

RAHAC members met Thursday to discuss the work of the subcommittee and to launch a new informational campaign about the health needs of teens, according to Kathleen Conway, project director.

"Primarily, we were talking about what the how the members of the subcommittee are going about their jobs. We are also talking about having a discussion at each meeting about all of the issues teens are facing," Conway said.

The eight-member subcommittee is a branch of the 25-member RAHAC. Members of the subcommittee have been charged with the responsibility of analyzing student, parent and school staff surveys to determine the health needs of students in the district.

"We're looking really closely to determine what are the gaps, and we want to know how to fill those gaps. We set a deadline before Christmas to develop a recommendation as to what the kids in Romulus need," Conway said.

The surveys were funded by a $20,000 planning grant in 1987 from the Michigan Department of Public Health and a $20,000 continuance grant in 1988. Junior and senior high school students were surveyed in April, as were parents and school district staff members.

Some of the survey results showed that:

- 69 percent of students go to the doctor when needed;
- 42.4 percent of high school students drink "hard liquor" once or more each week;
- At least 91 percent of the students have never used "hard drugs;"
- 29 percent of junior high students surveyed say they have engaged in sexual intercourse;
- 68.2 percent of senior high students say they have engaged in sexual intercourse;
- At most, 58 percent of those students surveyed used birth control;

• 93 percent of high school students (77 junior high) students would like to see a teen health clinic in or near the school;

• 91 percent of parents surveyed would favor a teen health clinic in or near the schools; and

• 98.7 percent of school staff members surveyed favor a teen health clinic in or near the schools.

After the surveys are analyzed and a recommendation is made to the full committee, Conway said, committee members must decide how to implement the proposals.

"The next thing would be for the committee to say, 'Here are the gaps. How are we going to provide those services?'" Conway said.

Health services to be offered as a result of the surveys and studies could include a stepped-up transportation system for teens to have access to existing health clinics in the area, supplementing the one district school nurse with assistance or establishing a teen health center in or near the schools, Conway said.

The creation of a teen health center, however, has been sharply criticized by some parents in the district. The parents have complained that the health clinics would allow the disbursing of contraceptives to students and give information about abortion.

Nevertheless, Conway said, both are prohibited by state law.

"It's illegal to hand out birth control or give even abortion referrals, unless this were a free-standing (profiting) clinic," Conway said. "If it's in or on school property, the law says you can't distribute birth control."

In addition, Conway said, RAHAC members are currently analyzing the data, and no recommendations or decisions have yet been made.

Members of the advisory committee meet at 2:30 p.m. the second and fourth Thursdays of the month in the Romulus Community Schools administrative offices, on Grant Road, Romulus. Call 941-1600, ext. 23 for meeting details.

the high school. The city pool — which was to be indoors and Olympic-size — would add approximately $7 million to the project price tag, according to McAnally.

However, the probability of being able to fund and maintain a city-owned pool is poor, according to the mayor.

"A swimming pool is better to be managed by the school district. We have no special interest in a swimming pool," McAnally said. "We want the community to have access to the pool, but it should be managed by the school district."

Without the pool, the proposed city recreation center would be located on seven acres of land north of city hall, on Wayne Road. The facility would include a gymnasium, running track, locker rooms, multi-purpose room, kitchen, exercise room, weight room, game room, arts-and-crafts room, wallyball court, three handball/racquetball courts and administrative offices, according to a proposal outlined by the city planning firm of Coquillard/Dundon/Peter-son and Argenta.

City officials are currently reviewing the recreation centers in Wayne and Westland for models of annual operating costs and probable use of such a facility. To date, however, predicted operating costs for the Romulus complex are unknown.

The swimming pool, to be owned by the school district, would be added to the existing high school building, on Wayne Road, or to the current junior high school. School officials are considering renovating the 13-year-old junior high and using it as the city high school.

The 30-year-old current high school building would, then, be used as the junior high.

Residents at the meeting Monday again expressed their concern for a stepped-up recreation plan in Romulus. Many residents said progress on the plan should be made soon.

Nevertheless, members of the school board expressed their cautious optimism for the future of the joint-venture proposal.

"I could support this as long as we are fulfilling all of our other responsibilities," said school board member Sandra Langley.

Officials from both the city and schools agreed to delay any official action on the idea until after the Nov. 8 election.

FOUR REASONS NOT TO USE SMOKELESS TOBACCO.

DIPPING IS FOR DIPS.
DON'T USE SNUFF OR CHEWING TOBACCO

1. I'll stay home before I date a dip.

2. Dips don't touch my lips.

3. Smells like something died in his mouth.

4. The first thing I notice about a boy is his smile. Ever see a dip's smile?

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

Halloween safety is promoted

Area public safety officials are preaching tips for a "horribly safe Halloween" this year.

Area firefighters and officials from Consumers Power Co. have issued the following Halloween safety reminders for young goblins and their parents.

- Fire-wise homeowners know it's never wise to use candles in a jack-o-lantern. Whether carried by a trick-or-treater or set on a window ledge, the candle-light pumpkin is nothing more or less than a fire waiting for a chance to spread, officials said.

- To combat the problem, and still have the flickering light in the pumpkin, firefighters recommend using a 7-light Christmas string of the old G7 size bulbs (the size in which the bulbs look like colored night-light bulbs). Fill the string with red and yellow lamps that flash by themselves.

- Cut a small hole in the back of the pumpkin to accommodate the electric plug and drop in the lights.

- For children who will be trick-or-treating, be sure costumes are flame-retardant. Most commercial Halloween costumes already are. If you make your own, ask the fabric shop for flame-retardant powder to treat the costume.

- Trick-or-treat in your own neighborhood.

- Stay on the sidewalks and on well-lighted streets.

- Wear brightly colored clothes/costumes that fit well.

- Use a flashlight after daylight hours.

- Travel in groups and, whenever possible, be accompanied by parents or responsible teenagers.

The main lunch item for the next week in the Van Buren school district is as follows:

• Elementary schools - Wednesday, no lunch; Thursday, bologna with cheese on sub; Friday, pizza; Monday, chicken pattie on bun; Tuesday, grilled cheese sandwich or fish on bun; Wednesday, Oct. 26, pizza; Thursday, Oct. 27, chicken nuggets; Friday, Oct. 28, spaghetti.

Junior and senior high schools - Wednesday, no lunch; Thursday, pizza or turkey croissant; Friday, taco or roasted sausage on bun; Monday, bologna or stuffed pizza; Tuesday, fried chicken or sirloin submarine; Wednesday, Oct. 26, grilled cheese sandwich or deep dish pizza; Thursday, Oct. 27, taco or Belleville cheeseburger; Friday, Oct. 28, fish nuggets or fried clam roll.

Belleville play to premiere

The Belleville High School Productions, directed by Karen Hunchberger, will present the comedy Mr. Hobbs' Vacation Dec. 1 through 3 in the high school auditorium.

The cast of 15 students will be aided by Glenn Curtis, technical director; Gwen Buege, art director; and Mona Salisbury, costume mistress.

Tickets will be on sale in November.

Parents, teachers meet in November

The fall schedule of parent/teacher conferences has been set at Belleville High School.

The dates and times include 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. and 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Nov. 16, and 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Nov. 17.

Students will attend a half day of school Nov. 16 through 18.

Morning announcers selected at North

Every year North Middle School in Belleville stages auditions for students to read morning announcements on the public address system.

Announcer for this school year are: Monica Hoeft, Derrick Craig, Jessica Boelter, Eric Frazier, Donita Clark, Richard Brewer, Wendi Tilman, George Voulgaris, Carmelita Martell and Anne Gray.

North students lauded for efforts

Every month, North Middle School, Belleville, honors two young men and two young women from each grade as Vikings of the Month. Teachers nominate the students by considering such criteria as citizenship, attitude, effort, improvement and scholarship.

Vikings of the Month for September were sixth graders Nina Kar, Michelle McGoldrick, Darrell Mungo and Richard Wellday; seventh graders Chana Hawkins, Teresa Taylor, Scott Abbott and Jeremy Gray; and eighth graders Emily Bohler, Marybeth Jackson, Seth Halstead and Robert Sundry.

Fun run slated for Hale Creek

Students at Hale Creek Elementary in Romulus may participate in a fun run, set for 9 a.m. Saturday at the school. Students in grades one and two can participate in the quarter-mile walk/run; third and fourth graders can join in the half-mile walk/run; and the fifth and sixth graders can show their speed in the one-mile walk/run event.

Parents are also encouraged to participate. Certificates of accomplishment will be given to all finishers.

Fire Prevention Week remembered

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Although seminars from Fire Prevention Week have ended, students at Romulus elementary schools are still talking about them.

Not only did Romulus firefighters show up for the occasion, but another popular painted face paid a visit. The face belonged to Ronald McDonald, the popular McDonald's restaurant mascot, who performed an unforgettable show for the students, according to William Smith, principal of Barth Elementary, Romulus.

"The Ronald McDonald guy is just fantastic and he keeps the kids in the palm of his hand. It's really an excellent program," Smith said.

Romulus firefighters were on hand to back up the clown, but Ronald ran the show from start to finish.

This year, Ronald McDonald taught the children fire safety and the theme "Stop, Drop and Roll," the action to take when one catches on fire.

"He really led the kids through the whole thing. When he first comes in the place, the place is in an uproar. He's a master at keeping the kids' attention too," Smith said.

But Ronald McDonald is not a new face at Barth or the other Romulus elementaries. This is his third year for Fire Prevention Week performances.

Ronald McDonald arrived atop a fire engine.

After the program, Smith said, the character shakes hands with each of the students and takes the younger children to the fire truck.

"The most helpful part to them is the message of fire safety that he conveys to them. It's a lot better getting the safety instruction on stage like this," Smith said.

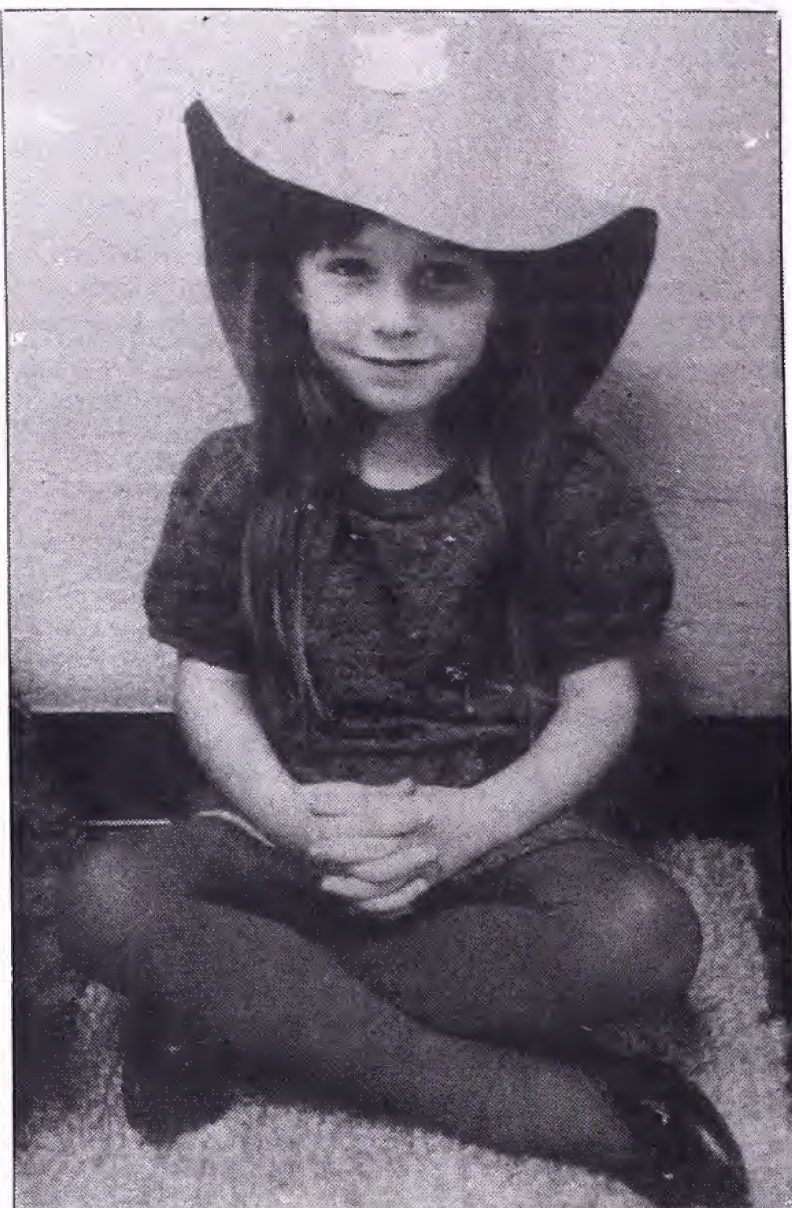

Although the Fire Prevention Week programs in Belleville elementary schools may not be so spiced up, Donald Priest, principal at Tyler Elementary, Belleville, said their program also seems to be effective.

In Belleville elementary schools, students viewed films on fire safety and listened to Belleville firefighters.

"We have the fire department come in and talk to our students and they go directly into the rooms and show the kids the gear," Priest said.

"The whole program helps the students too because it makes them aware not to play with matches and it makes them aware of what they can do in their own home to prevent fires from starting."

One of the best parts of the program, Priest explained, is that the children take the ideas they learned home with them.

Belleville students explore career options

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Students at Belleville High School have something to look forward to after graduation, thanks to a new in-school program.

As a result of student interest, the Career Awareness Explorer program will begin at the school this month, according to Dianne Tilson, Belleville High School assistant principal.

Last year, Tilson said, students were asked if a career planning program at the school would be helpful and students responded positively.

The program calls for 10 career planning seminars to be staged at the school during the year. Sophomores are the main target group of the program, but other students may attend as well, Tilson said.

Three people will be present at each of the sessions. These people will lead the students in a career discussion.

"The first person would be an entry level person in that particular career being discussed; a second person would be further along in that career, such as in a management position; and the third person might be an offshoot of that career," Tilson explained.

The idea for the program came from teachers at the high school who thought students should be better prepared for careers and have more information about the careers.

"It's a very informative kind of setting. Students find out the training needs for a particular field and what is needed, what and where training is provided, what the employment outlook might be and many additional things about the field," Tilson said.

Students are expressing real enthusiasm over the seminars. And I think they should. I think they (the seminars) will be very successful and it is something that is needed in the curriculum. It is well-organized and will offer good information to the students.

The students, she said, will have the option of attending any of the seminars. They may attend as many as four of the 10 seminars.

"Students are expressing real enthusiasm over the seminars. And I think they should. I think they (the seminars) will be very successful and it is something that is needed in the curriculum. It is well-organized and will offer good information to the students," Tilson said.

Belleville celebrates spirit week

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Students at Belleville High School have been getting a taste of time travel this week, all because of homecoming spirit week.

As part of a celebration for the annual homecoming spirit week, students have been dressing in clothes of different eras, said Bill Houston, assistant principal of Belleville High School.

Monday was 1920s day. Tuesday was dedicated to the 1950s, and today students are wearing class shirts, Houston said.

Thursday students will dress 1960s style and Friday it's back to the 1980s with school colors day.

"Wednesday evening is powder puff football games. There will be two games. The first is at 6 p.m. and it will be the sophomore girls against the freshman girls, and at 7:15, the junior girls will play the senior girls," Houston said.

Also tonight, the classes of 1989, '90, '91 and '92 will compete in a tug-of-war match up on the football field. That event is slated for 6:45 p.m.

In addition, students and parents can also participate in the Snake Dance, tonight. The marching band will perform as students and parents enjoy the warmth of a big bon fire, Houston said.

Students will decorate the school courtyard Friday and judges will pick a winner at 8:30 a.m.

An outdoor assembly will also be staged Friday, Houston said.

The Belleville football team will play Lincoln Park at 7 p.m. for the big homecoming match-up. The homecoming queen will be announced at halftime.

After the game, students can attend the homecoming dance, set for 9 p.m. to midnight. Tickets for the football game are $2, and dance tickets are also $2. Belleville students will be admitted to the dance with a student ID and guests will need a guest pass from a Belleville High School administrator.

Music will be provided by a disc jockey and food and refreshments will be available.

Ballot: Environmental-bond approval stressed in forum

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

Four advocates of solid waste management were in Canton Oct. 13 to promote a monumental $800 million environmental bond proposal scheduled for the fall ballot.

Participating in the luncheon program, co-sponsored by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, the Canton Chamber of Commerce and The Community Crier, were: Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth; Rep. Jim Kosteva, D-Canton; Jerry Fore, vice president of Wayne Disposal, Inc. and Dave Dempsey, environmental advisor to Gov. James Blanchard.

The luncheon was conducted at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton.

The bond issue in question, Proposals C and D, will appear on the Nov. 8 ballot. Proposal C would provide $660 million to protect the environment. Proposal D would provide $140 million for recreational needs.

"This is the largest single bonding issue ever requested in this state," said Dempsey to a crowd of approximately 60 leaders in business and education. "It's absolutely essential to maintain the environment in the state."

Dempsey said the solid waste situation in Michigan is bad and growing steadily worse. Currently, he said, 32,000 tons of solid waste are disposed of in landfills throughout the state per day, enough to completely fill the Silverdome with waste each and every day.

The $800 million bonding issue would not result in a tax increase, according to Dempsey, who said the money to repay the bond obligations would come from the general fund.

"The scene is the same, the story is the same, no matter where you go in this country," said Fore. "We are in a crisis situation when it comes to solid waste. We are losing capacity faster than we are gaining it."

We are seeing an increasing tendency to restrict the movement of waste throughout the country. In order to properly manage, you have to have waste from a variety of sources, have to have a large number of customers."

Of the $660 million targeted for environmental projects, said Law, $425 would be spent on the cleanup of toxic waste sites in the state. There are currently 1,700 to 1,800 known contaminated sites in the state.

Proposal C would allow emergency cleanup to take place at 600 sites and complete cleanup at another 300.

Solid waste disposal programs would receive $150 million under Proposal C, with funds going to the local communities and the private sector for recycling, air pollution controls, the closing of unsafe landfills, the economical shipping of waste and the expansion of markets for recycled materials.

Sewage treatment programs would receive $60 million in state funds, to be matched by federal dollars to the tune of $365 million enabling local communities to build or upgrade sewage treatment facilities over the next 10 years.

If passed, Proposal C would also provide $25 million to protect the environmental integrity of the Great Lakes.

In terms of recreation, Proposal D provides for $140 million, to be split evenly between the upgrading of the state park system and the financing of local, tourism-related community parks and programs.

"Every Wednesday night, we put our garbage out - out of sight, out of mind," Kosteva said. "Those days are gone. It's coming back on beaches, floating around on barges. We have to stop making some of the incorrect assumptions we have been making. The solutions are there; the technology is there."

Kosteva called Proposals C

and D "important first steps," but stressed the need for a grass roots, wide-scale educational effort to make the average citizen aware of the scope of the solid-waste problem.

Kosteva cited composting, sorting, separation, recycling and the boycotting of over-packaged materials as ways in which the average person could help stem the tide of increasing amounts of unrecyclable trash collecting in a dwindling number of licensed landfills.

Law said the problem in Plymouth and Canton is the same as in all of Wayne County. "In the next few years," he said, "there won't be a place to dump solid waste."

Victims' rights issue on ballot

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

No civilization or nation since the beginning of recorded time has ever protected the rights of the criminal as has the United States of America.

But, somehow, the rights of the victims of crime have been overlooked or forgotten.

Now, lawmakers, especially Michigan lawmakers, are attempting to correct that oversight. Although the rights of the victims of crime have been placed on the state books since 1985, a new proposal will incorporate those rights in the state of Michigan Constitution.

If the voters approve Proposal B on the Nov. 8 general election ballot, the victims of crime will have guaranteed rights under the state Constitution.

"There is a great deal of support for this proposal," according to state Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton Township).

Kosteva and state Rep. Justice Barns (D-Westland) co-sponsored the bill.

The bill, authored by state Rep. Mary Brown (D-Kalamazoo), is known as the crime victims' bill.

"There are several key provisions that have been enacted into law," Kosteva said. "Proposal B would amend the Constitution (and) would guarantee that victims of crime be treated with dignity and respect and be protected from the accused."

Kosteva said there are provisions for victims of crime to be compensated.

"And I don't know of any opposition to date against Proposal B. It is something that should have been incorporated in the constitution long before this," Kosteva said.

The proposal would guaran-te that victims of crime would have specific rights throughout the entire judicial process, without violating the due process of the accused.

— James Kosteva
Representative

tee that victims of crime would have specific rights throughout the entire judicial process, without violating the due process of the accused.

Since 1985, the state of Michigan has had on the legal ledgers a crime victims' law. But carrying out the mandates of that law have frustrated law enforcement and judicial-system officials.

Because of the overloaded judicial system, some prosecutors and judges "just don't have time for the victims of crime. They also 'plea bargain' without notifying the victims."

Proposal B, if approved, would correct those past practices. It would be difficult to ignore the rights of the victims if those rights were clearly defined in the state Constitution.

The lawmakers will also have the power of the Constitution to assess charges against convicted criminals to pay the victims of crime.

"Basically, what Proposal B would do," Kosteva stressed, "is that the victims of crime will have the constitutional right to be treated with respect and fairness, and they will also be reasonably protected from the accused.

"I can't see how this (Proposal B) can fail," Kosteva said. "It is your right and my right. If we are unfortunate to become victims of a crime, to be protected, under the Constitution. I think this is what we all want."

In a recent survey, conducted by the Lansing-based Marketing Resource Group, Inc., voters were overwhelming in approval of Proposal B. Some 80 percent said that they would vote for it, 12 percent opposed it, while the remaining 8 percent didn't know enough about the proposal to voice an opinion.

WINNERS CIRCLE

BY LAURIE KIPP

Players will soon see new Michigan Lottery terminals being installed at their favorite retailer locations. The following talks about this change.

Q: Why is a change being made?

A: In order to maximize net revenues for the state, the Lottery recognizes that it must replace its outdated computer terminals with state-of-the-art equipment which will allow for growth, as well as improved service for players.

Q: Who will provide these terminals?

A: GTECH, a leader in the worldwide lottery industry, won the contract to provide this equipment to the state.

Q: When will we see these new terminals?

A: The Lottery will begin the conversion process during late October.

Q: When will the process be complete?

A: By early 1989, all 3,800 on-line retailers throughout the state will have the new equipment.

Q: What's new that players will see?

A: A revised Lotto bet slip, as well as a new Daily Game bet slip will make game play easier. Players will also enjoy the new computerized message screen—much like a mini TV screen—that retailers have the option of using with their new terminals.

Q: What other differences are there in the new system?

A: We're very excited about a new security feature. Ticket sales will be simultaneously recorded at two locations on three separate computers to safeguard wagering activity in the event of a disaster such as fire, tornado, etc.

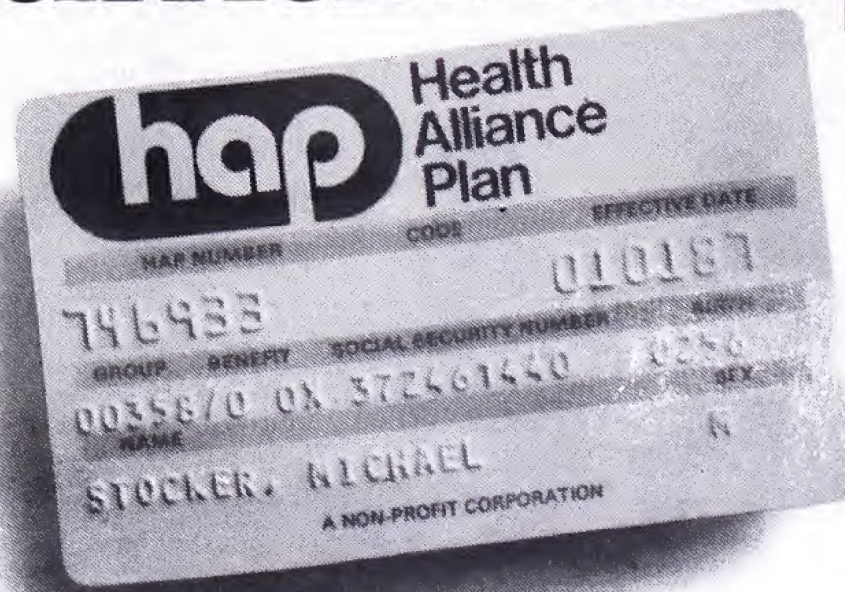

Q: Are there new games on the horizon?

A: The GTECH system includes an extensive library of games and features. We will certainly explore all possible options, but no new games are in the works at present.

For asking the question which led to this column, Irene Ondresik of Warren will receive 50 free "Fall Cash" instant game tickets.

If you have a Lottery question not yet covered in these monthly columns, send it to: "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 30077, Lansing, MI 48909.

DIGEST

Revised 6-pack rings required

A new state law will require the six-ring devices that hold beverage containers together to be made of a material that will dissolve within one year when exposed to sunlight and other natural elements.

Many Michigan fish, birds and animals have died after becoming entangled in discarded plastic, especially in these kinds of holding devices.

Bill extends Medicaid care

State House members are considering a bill that would extend Medicaid benefits to long-term care patients who have exhausted all the benefits of an approved long-term care insurance policy, without requiring the individuals or their spouses to "spend down" to personal impoverishment.

Most standard insurance plans will not cover long-term care. Medicaid, which is designed to pay for health care for low-income people, does provide this coverage, but patients and their spouses must spend all of their savings and dispose of all their assets before they can qualify.

Handicapped rights revised

In order to prevent able-bodied motorists from abusing handicapped parking privileges, the state will be issuing newly designed, more identifiable parking permits for people with permanent or temporary disabilities.

The new temporary permits will display the expiration date in easy-to-read bold print and will deteriorate after a reasonable amount of time.

Applicants for the permits will have to provide more specific information from their physicians in order to obtain a permanent or temporary sticker.

Volunteer fire staff to benefit

A bill recently introduced in the state House would create a new program of retirement benefits for volunteer firefighters. Under the proposed program, local governments could choose to contribute to a new state fund, up to $5 per month for each firefighter who wants to participate.

Muzzling the problem

State lawmakers consider dangerous animal restrictions

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

Two bills currently under consideration in Lansing would put a muzzle on dangerous dogs, including pit bulls.

Although local reaction to both bills is generally favorable, some people think the bills are all bark and no bite.

House Bill 4897 targets all "dangerous animals" and would extend to all dogs and certain other animals, including pit bulls, that bite or attack a human.

If HB 4897 were enacted, the owner of a dangerous animal which caused the death of a person would be subjected to prosecution for involuntary manslaughter, a felony punishable by imprisonment for up to 15 years, a fine of $7,500 or both.

HB 4897 won overwhelming support in the House in May. It has been referred to the Senate Committee on Judiciary and Regulatory Affairs.

Another proposal, Senate Bill 269, would regulate the ownership, registration and identification of American pit bullterriers only. Under the bill, owners of pit bulls would be required to provide a secure fenced-in area for such dogs or risk prosecution for a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment for up to one year, or a fine of up to $500 or both.

Different versions of SB 269 have passed both the Senate and the House and are currently being considered by a conference committee.

"Local police have never considered this issue a priority," said Eileen Liska, director of research and legislation for the Michigan Humane Society. "We helped draft 4897, but it's been mangled in committee. We have to beef up animal control laws on the state level - it's gotten to the point where they're not even enforcing license and leash laws."

More important than HB 4897, said Liska, is a bill introduced by Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor) which would update felony laws on animal fighting.

House Bill 5595, sponsored by Bullard, would make it a felony for anyone to "own, breed, buy, sell, exchange, import or export a dog that has fought or been trained to fight."

"Seven years ago, we made a public statement that our shelter was noticing an increase in pit bull dogs with scars," Liska said. "We predicted there was going to be a public safety threat. We thought it might take 10 years; it happened sooner."

At the crux of the problem, said Liska, is several elite, clandestine groups which promote dog fighting.

Those who breed pit bulls to fight, said Liska, often keep only the best puppy in a litter, selling the rest to the public at large.

"Teen-agers in Detroit want them (pit bulls) to strut their stuff; they're used to guard crackhouses; these are not responsible pet owners," Liska said.

Liska said that until lawmakers can enact and enforce laws which clamp down on dog fighting, the "dangerous dog" syndrome will continue. If not with pit bulls, with another breed.

"If a virus wiped out all the pit bulls in Detroit," said Liska, "The fighters would find different breeds."

Liska said that infiltrating these groups which promote dog fighting is a dangerous and long-term process, but some progress has been made.

Opinion

Equal rights ruling must go to the dogs

Generalized, stereotypical labels of groups are unfair, unacceptable and damaging to society. Even when such a label is being placed on a group of animals.

We speak, of course, of the pit bull terrier dilemma currently facing society and state lawmakers. Legislators in Lansing are considering two bills that would "put a muzzle" on dangerous dogs, including pit bulls.

While we are applauding one of these bills, sponsored by the state House, and urging passage of it, we also cannot condone the language of the other Senate bill, which would require owners of pit bulls to secure a fenced-in area for the dogs or risk prosecution for a misdemeanor. Such a law would be clearly discriminatory and would not solve the problem at hand.

The better bill - proposed by the House - would target all dogs termed as "dangerous." No breed would be singled out, nor would any particular group of animals be discriminated against.

Indeed, the horror stories of several area pit-bull maulings have exemplified the need for better control of domestic animals. The animals we keep as pets cannot be potential threats to our safety or the well being of others.

But the fact remains that pit bulls, as a breed, are not solely responsible for the tragedies that have taken place. Seldom do we scrutinize the owner of these dogs to see if, perhaps, the techniques used to train these animals were aggressive, teaching and conditioning the dogs to fight.

Magnifying the problems for the pit-bull breed is the fact that some area groups promote dog fights, using pit bull terriers. These dogs are also used to guard crackhouses and "teenagers in Detroit want (pit bulls) to strut their stuff," according to an official from the Michigan Humane Society.

"These are not responsible pet owners," the MHS official added.

Responsible pet ownership, in fact, is the root of evil in this problem. It should not be pit bulls we are targeting in this campaign but irresponsible and malicious pet owners whose intentions are only to train vicious dogs.

If a ban on pit bulls or even stiffer restrictions were imposed on this breed alone, we would soon read headlines about other breeds of dogs being used to guard crackhouses, being used to kill.

Thus, we applaud the efforts by members of the state House of Representatives to consider an equal rights type of proposal for all animals. The House bill, if enacted, would make the owner of any animal considered dangerous responsible for a $7,500 fine and/or 15 years imprisonment if the animal caused the death of a person.

We also urge Senate leaders to reconsider action on SB 269, aimed only at pit bulls. The bill provides no equity for owners of pit bulls who properly raise their animals and no equity for owners of other breeds who train their dogs to fight and kill.

In the Senate bill, the owners of all pit bull terriers would receive an unwarranted, stereotypical label. That, again, would serve as another prime example of discrimination at its best.

His example was set

The area lost a true leader last week, a public servant who leaves behind a classic example for all of us to follow.

John Edward Nothnagel, 79, longtime owner of the Wayne Music Center, on Michigan Avenue, Wayne, died Thursday morning in Tennessee.

Nothnagel was an exemplary civic activist and community worker, serving as a member of the Rotary International, the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and having several key posts at the First Baptist Church of Wayne.

The local businessman never flinched at giving more to his community or his church and was always willing to work for the betterment of the area. Such characteristics are to be envied and emulated by all who step into the same shoes of public service and community work.

Mr. Nothnagel has left our path of life. But he has also blazed a trail on which everyone should follow.

A sense of 'Discovery'

Son Doug and I were playing tennis recently, as we frequently do on weekends. Number one son is at Central University in Mt. Pleasant and has recently moved his major to computers. Except for weekends, I rarely have the pleasure of his dry humor and boundless energy. Ah, the price of an education.

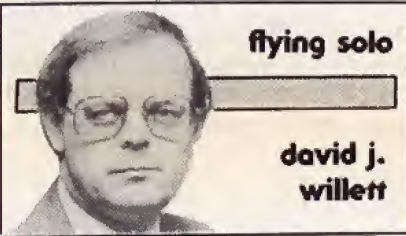

Anyway, I shouted across the Wayne High School tennis court to my formidable opponent, "So, what do you think about the Challenger?"

With a perfectly straight face, my son responded as we bounded up to the net, "Well, they all died, you know."

There was a brief silence and then, feeling very foolish, I admitted that I meant the Discovery. "Yeah, I know what you meant," my young tormentor said with a grin.

Since Doug was in kindergarten, it seems, he has been fascinated with space and the NASA program to take man to the moon, planets and beyond. At Doug's request, I have been searching my archives for a tape recording of him at the age of 4 or so, explaining in great detail to anyone who would listen, the mechanics of Buzz Aldrin and Neal Armstrong's recovery from the sea after their first space trip.

Doug will be living a life-long dream in a few days when he attends the NASA Training Center in Huntsville, Ala. He will experience first-hand some of the thrills and spills astronauts encounter during training.

"Space, the final frontier" as they say on Star Trek, is both frightening and awesome. We all, no doubt, watched televised experts and read newspaper accounts of the background of each of the Discovery crew members, and their fascinating orbital voyage.

We are not yet recovered from the emotional scars left on our society as a result of the horror and heart-wrenching trauma of watching the vibrant young crew of the Challenger being hurled to agonizing deaths.

Soon, no doubt, we will be back to taking the magic of it all for granted. We will be, once again, reading newspaper reports of the latest shuttle launch or satellite deployment.

Last week, I had occasion to travel to Washington, D.C. and during my flight I could not help but notice our community from the sky as we left the ground. The air was clear, the sun was bright and the clouds were scattered. I could quickly pick out the high-rise buildings of Wayne, the patches of commercial structures and the residential areas throughout western Wayne County.

The flowing waterway of Detroit looked almost frightening to me. I was reminded, as I viewed it, of the green toxic coolant that is so necessary to the functioning of an air conditioner, but which I would not wish to touch. Having been reared in Detroit and having studied the history of the city in school, I thought of my recent visits to the metropolis. I compared those trips to the recent drives I've made through Southfield and Oakland County and to the development here, in our west suburban cities.

What I know for sure is the world is changing all around us at an increasingly accelerated rate. I know that the epicenter of development and opportunity for growth has shifted in our direction and I know that the view of "home" is much clearer from far away.

From a distance, we see details in the proper context and proportion. Much has been written about leaving a place in order to see it more clearly, and to find oneself.

Son Doug will, no doubt, be seeing himself and the world we live in more clearly after his trip to the NASA center. And perhaps, through him, I will, as I so often do, learn more of myself and the world around us.

We, as a country, are, I think, experiencing a time of discovery unprecedented in history... discovery of the physical world and the universe, and discovery of the physical and psychological nature, makeup and possibilities of mankind.

What a great time to be alive and to be a part of it all. Here's to Discovery.

Inkster is next Record-setting Robichaud clinches championship

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Setting a record of 38 points scored in a period of 12 minutes, Robichaud claimed a share of the Suburban Athletic Conference football championship with a 60-8 trouncing of Willow Run Friday afternoon.

The victory was also significant in that Coach Bob Yauck's Bulldogs avenged last year's loss to the Flyers who are the only conference team to beat Robichaud in the past two years.

"I am proud of these kids," Yauck said after winning his seventh SAC championship. "And, I want to point out that it isn't as if we were pouring it on Willow Run, they committed four quick turnovers in the second period deep within their own territory that led to those record-setting 38 points."

With their fifth consecutive SAC victory, Robichaud is now

5-2 on the year. Only arch-rival, Inkster, stands in the path of the Bulldogs claiming all of the title. A victory Friday night before the Inkster Homecoming crowd would seal the title.

However, Yauck cautioned that playing Inkster, a traditional neighboring rival, has never been easy.

"I can tell you a lot of horror stories about our two teams," Yauck said. "You don't look at records when we play one another. And I don't care what kind of season we're having. You can always expect a hard-hitting, well-fought game on both sides of the line."

For the record, after Oak Park buried Inkster last week, 31-2, the Vikings have a dismal 1-4 (SAC) and 1-6 overall record.

Although Yauck refuses to look past Inkster to the following regular season - ending game at Bay City John Glenn, if the Bulldogs can chalk up victories in their final two outings, they may just clinch a post-season Class B playoff berth.

"When we look back and think that three points, one field goal, makes the difference between a 7-0 season and a 5-2 year, well, it sort of makes you cringe," Yauck said. "But you look at the next game. And only the next game."

Tigers bounce back

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

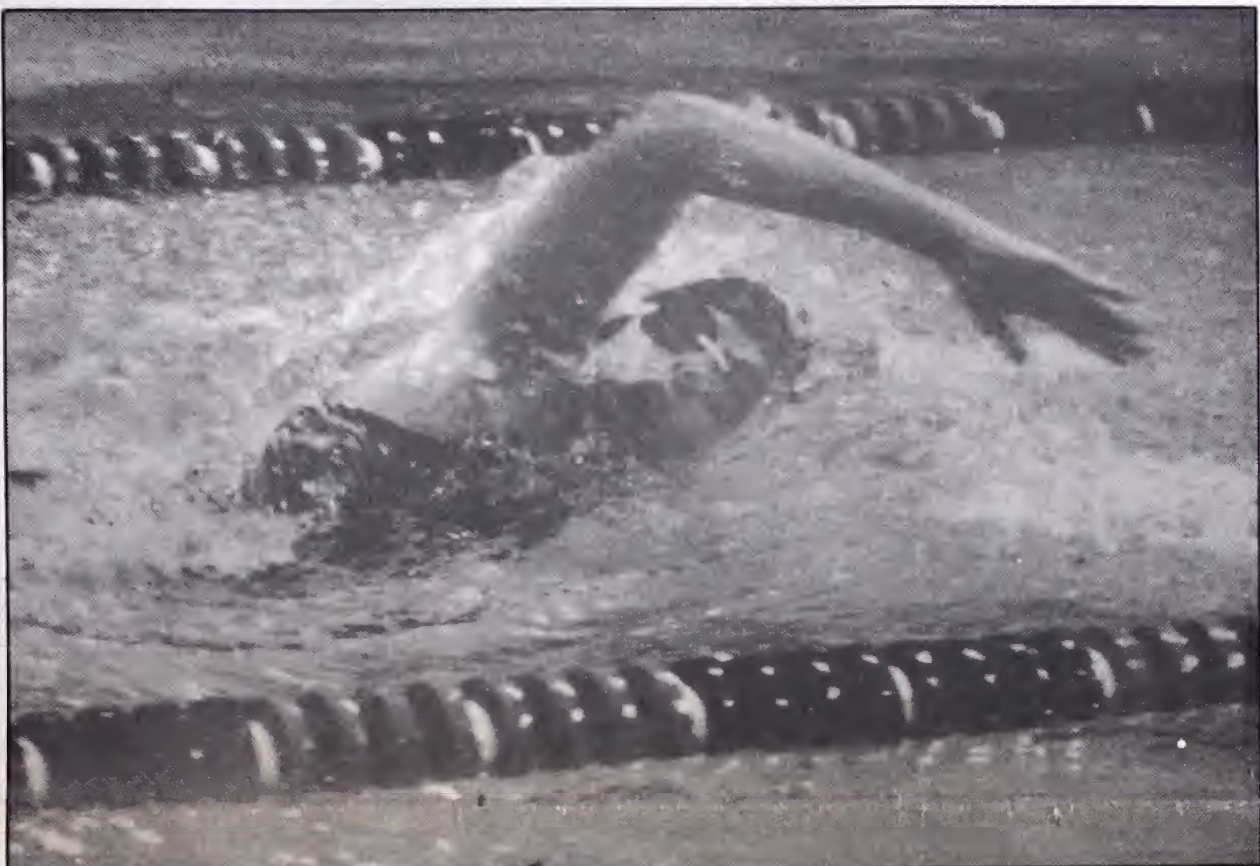

After reality set in a week ago when Belleville lost to pre-season Wolverine 'A' Conference title favorite Trenton, the Tigers wasted little time Thursday evening as they turned in a sparkling 112-56 victory over Monroe.

The victory upped Coach Greg Cooper and the Tigers' conference mark to 2-1 on the year. They have an impressive 5-2 record for the season.

"I am really happy with this performance," Cooper said, commenting on the triumph over Monroe. "Last week, we took it on the chin and, whenever that happens, you wonder just how you'll come back the following meet."

"The kids didn't let losing to Trenton affect them. They came right back and swam well."

Belleville swept nine out of a possible 11 first places against Monroe as Melanie Merritt and Jennifer Snure

Coasting to the finish wall is Belleville's Melanie Merritt who won the 200-yard freestyle (above) in 2:14.38 and also contributed a victory in the 100-yard butterfly which helped the Tigers dump Monroe Thursday in a Wolverine 'A' Conference girls' dual swim meet. The victory boosted Belleville's record to 2-1 in the conference. They'll rest on Thursday after clashing with traditional rival, Ypsilanti, last night. ANP photo by Chris Pandel/freelance photographer each accounted for two wins apiece.

Merritt touched in first for the 200-yard freestyle as she churned a 2:14.38. Her time of 1:08.43 was the best recorded in the meet for the 100-yard butterfly.

Snure topped the field in the 200-yard individual medley, covering the distance in 2:33.39. She also was the swimmer to catch in the 100-yard breaststroke. She turned in a 1:18.92 to win that event.

Gina Montie chipped in a victory in the 100-yard freestyle with a 1:00.0 effort.

Belleville also put away the diving event in its victory column thanks to the performance of Amy Leonard who piled up 138.75 points. And Rachel Snure, Jennifer's older sister, won the 500-yard freestyle in 5:59.17. Teammate Christy Adkins hit the wall first in the 100-yard backstroke (1:14.41.)

Belleville knocks out Wyandotte for 2nd victory

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It was a strange game. Belleville football Coach Dave McCarney will admit to that. He didn't expect his 34-18 victory over Wyandotte to contain so many elements of suspense.

In fact, the suspense ended before the final chapter was even written. Officials called the game, staged at Wyandotte, with a little more than two minutes remaining because of a brawl involving both benches.

With time running out, a Wyandotte and Belleville player got involved in a shoving match and before it was all over, the emotions spilled over to other players.

"The officials decided to call the game, although the regulation time had not run out," McCarney said. "I don't think anyone was hurt. But they wanted to defuse a volatile situation. I believe that they (the officials) made the right decision."

Belleville had spoiled Wyandotte's Homecoming celebration with the victory.

And the score also is deceptive. Closer than the final score indicates.

The two teams exchanged early first-quarter touchdowns as Belleville tight end Scott Janack sprinted 66 yards on a reverse the very first play from scrimmage. The versatile Belleville athlete was elected to play the position after starter, Craig Chance, was sidelined during the week with a very bad case of flu.

The Tigers' lead was short-lived as the Bears came right back in their first series and put the tying TD on the scoreboard thanks to a seven-play series and the running ability of Jim Martin.

Martin, a 6-3, 195-pound senior scored on a seven-yard option.

Unleashing its best offense of the campaign, Belleville erupted for two second-quarter touchdowns to take a 20-6 halftime lead. Quarterback Jeremy Ison teamed up with Maurice Brantley on a 28-yard pass play that netted the Tigers their second TD. That was midway in the second period.

Wyandotte then reciprocated by giving the ball right back to their visitors when they fumbled the ensuing kickoff deep in Bear territory. Brad Dawson recovered for the Tigers on the enemy 38.

Ison drove his teammates to the one where, on the fifth play of the series, he handed off to running back Virgil Chandler, who dashed over the Bear goal line for the TD. Ison then elected to go to the air for the two-pointer and successfully tossed to Hunter for the conversion.

Belleville built upon its 20-6 halftime lead with a third-quarter touchdown. Marco Bingham capped a nine-play, 55-yard drive with a five-yard touchdown run. He set up his own TD with a pair of 22-yard gains - one a run, and the other a pass from Ison.

Chad McCarney was called in to kick the extra point and he made good on his attempt.

Now the Tigers looked untouchable. Leading 27-6, they appeared to be out of danger. The appearance was deceiving. Martin struck back. He cut into the Belleville lead with a 22-yard touchdown run that culminated a 60-yard drive.

Wyandotte then successfully executed the onside kick and recovered the ball on the Tiger 43. Eight plays later, the Bears were on the scoreboard again, turning it into a 27-18 ballgame.

With eight minutes remaining, the Tigers again were in sweat. McCarney returned his first-stringers on to the field of battle and five plays into the fourth quarter, after Hunter's 40-yard punt return, Chandler scored on a 25-yard run. McCarney kicked the extra point.

With Belleville up 34-18, and time running out on the Bears, tempers were short-fused. After what appeared to be a late hit on Chandler near the Belleville bench, two players suddenly began swinging at one another. Wyandotte emptied its bench and officials decided they had enough.

The game was called. It could have wound up even worse for the Bears. Brantley saw one of his touchdown runs nullified because of a clipping penalty. Two other Belleville TDs were called back because of penalties.

It was Belleville's second Wolverine 'A' Conference victory in five starts. The Tigers are now 3-4 as they prepare for their final conference game Friday night.

They'll host Lincoln Park, one of the conference leaders before a Tiger Homecoming crowd. And it won't be an easy task as McCarney pointed out.

"We're playing to prove we can knock off a playoff caliber team. They (Lincoln Park) needs this victory in order to keep their conference title hopes and their playoff dreams alive," McCarney said.

Against the Bears, Chandler finished with 214 yards rushing

Huron upsets Grosse Ile, 12-7

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Coach Tom Labeau said that if his team ever put it together they could play with the best of the teams in the conference.

And, Friday night, before a homecoming crowd, the Chiefs at New Boston High, proved their coach right. Putting on their best defensive show and with their injured running back, Pete Hill, joining the team, the Chiefs upset Grosse Ile, 12-7, for their first conference victory of the season.

Hill joined his brother, quarterback Paul Hill, in the offensive backfield and the twins accounted for both of the Chiefs' touchdowns.

It was the first time that the Chiefs had won a homecoming game in the past decade.

"We really played our best defensive game of the season," Labeau noted. "In fact, we held them to minus yardage in the second half."

Offensively, with the return of Pete, it was a different ball game for us. We did the things we needed to do to win this game."

However, it was an uphill climb for the Chiefs who trailed 6-0 at the half after Islander QB James Loeffner teamed up with Dennis Brant on a 7-yard touchdown pass with 19 seconds remaining in the initial half.

Pete Hill brought the Chiefs back and the homecoming crowd to its feet early in the third quarter when he engineered a midfield drive that stalled on the Islander four-yard line, whereupon he decided to take it in by himself on an option.

We played our best defensive game of the year. And, on offense we did what we had to do to win this game.

— Tom Labeau
Huron football coach

With the Chiefs trailing 7-6, Huron didn't put the winning points on the scoreboard until the last stanza. This time it was running back Pete Hill who got the call, and he plowed through the Islanders from the four.

Paul, who has been the mainstay of the Chiefs' offense this season, racked up 84-yards in 23 tries and one TD.

The Chief's newly found success will be put to the test Friday night when they take on Monroe Jefferson on the home turf. Jefferson, with a 5-1 conference record, trails only undefeated Riverview in the league standings. Their (Jefferson's) only loss in the league is to Riverview, and that came early in the season," Labeau said. "Right now, I feel that Jefferson is a better team. They're awfully good, and they are very physical."

"We're going to have to play an exceptional game in order to stay on the same field with them."

In other action involving Huron Conference teams: Riverview extended its winning streak to seven-games (6-0 in the league) at the expense of Monroe St. Mary's 35-14; Monroe Jefferson shut out Carleton Airport, 35-0.

it's going to be very difficult to stop her from winning the conference title.

"She is developing into quite a runner."

Despite Stumpf's outstanding individual performance and a second place run from Laura Alberts (21.19), the Tigers were edged 27-28 by Trenton, who handed their Wolverine 'A' rivals their first setback of the 1987 conference season.

Valentine and Laura did all they could do," Medley said. "The rest of our lineup had to beat someone, and they didn't."

The rest of the Belleville scoring went like this: Dawn Durham finished sixth (22:49); Heather Victor was ninth (23:23), while Mitzi Herkimer was tenth (23:28).

In the meantime, Belleville's boys team dropped a 24-31 decision to Trenton as the Tigers' record dipped to 2-2 on the Sophomore sensation Valentine Stumpf will be the one for the rest of the Wolverine 'A' Conference runners to catch when the conference championships are staged at Willow Metro Park on Saturday.

The championships are an excellent tuneup for the Class A Regional meet to be conducted a week from Saturday.

Coming off of a strong performance against Trenton where she was clocked in the first-place time of 20.38, the young Belleville High athlete is considered one of the finest distance runners to hit the area, if not the state, in recent years.

"Barring any injuries," said Belleville Coach Dave Medley, "and if she performs anywhere like she has in recent weeks,

Cagers return to form

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Defending champ, New Boston Huron, returned to winning form last week as Coach Bill Harrison's Chiefs bounced back from consecutive losses to win two key conference games.

After losing a pair of heart-breakers to Monroe St. Mary's 34-32, and to Grosse Ile, 64-51, Huron rattled Carlson 59-31 and dumped Monroe Jefferson, 48-39, last week to remain in the thick of the conference title chase.

And one of the big reasons why the Chiefs have regained their confidence is the performance of Laurel Haener, who has been tossing in baskets at a 15-point clip and flexing her muscles on the boards.

"She's coming on strong," said Harrison whose club now owns a 9-3 overall and a 6-2 conference record. "We have to continue to improve to make up for those losses. We still can catch these teams that beat us in the second round, so we're not out of this yet."

Against Carlson, All-Area guard Lauri Labeau fired in seven of her game-high 21 points to stake the Chiefs to a 18-4 first period lead. Huron managed to maintain its 10-point spread the rest of the evening as they enjoyed a 28-14 halftime and a 42-22 edge for three quarters.

Labeau was joined in the double-figure scoring column by Haener, who had 17 and Janet Hughes, who finished with 14.

Belleville's Teresa Kosiba (50) and Kathy Murphy (44) form the road block for this Wayne dribbler. Although the Tigers lost this Wolverine 'A' Conference encounter, 49-26, they bounced back to win two big games this week to improve their conference record to .500. The Tigers will host league-leading Trenton tomorrow night. ANP photo by Paula Parkinson/freelance photographer

Huron and Jefferson exchanged baskets on near equal terms for one half before the Chiefs erupted to a 22-3 third period en route to a 48-39 victory. After the initial stanza, the Chiefs had a slim 12-10 advantage which was cut to 24-23 at intermission. But the 22-3 scoring edge in the third lifted the defending champs out of trouble.

Haener again contributed double figures as she drilled in 16 points and collected 12 rebounds. Labeau had 14 points and eight assists for the game, while teammates Laurie Gubbini and Jenn Gracia stood out on defense. Gracia chipped in with 10 rebounds.

The Chiefs wasted Haener's outstanding all-around effort and 17 points in their 64-51 setback at the hands of their old nemesis, Grosse Ile.

Huron can ill-afford to lose another conference game and hope to retain their league crown. They met Airport last night and will entertain Riverview at home Thursday evening.

In the meantime, Belleville also did a little bouncing back of its own at the expense of Wyandotte and Lincoln Park last week.

Coach Michael Garland's Tigers, losers to Wayne Memorial, needed a come-from-behind rally to dispose of the Bears, 52-57. The Tigers trailed most of the first half after falling behind 16-15 for one period and 28-26 at halftime.

Then, with Kathy Murphy, an All-Area forward showing the way, Belleville outscored the Bears 16-8 in the third period and hung on to post their second Wolverine 'A' Conference victory in five starts. Murphy, Teresa Kosiba and Sharonda Johnson each scored four points in that third-period surge.

Murphy finished with a game high 18 points while Kosiba and Johnson each accounted for 12 points.

Garland's cagers made it an even .500 (3-3) in the league (7-4 overall) with a narrow, nailbiting 44-42 triumph over the Railsplitters of Lincoln Park. With less than a minute left in the game, Murphy connected on a turnaround jump shot and that stood up as the difference in the game. She also finished with 17 points for the game. Christy Garrett counted 13 and Kosiba had 12 points.

"We had our problems," Garland noted as he prepares for tomorrow night's encounter with league-leading Trenton. "We are missing some of the percentage shots. That makes for a close game.

And for low scores. The two teams each had six points after the first period, then the Tigers grabbed a 25-22 advantage at halftime. Belleville outscored their rivals 12-9 in the third but was outscored 11-7 in the finale.

Inkster Coach Dwight Hotchkiss ran up against the "unexpected" as his Vikings swept a pair of key Suburban Athletic Conference basketball games last week.

Inkster buried Willow Run 74-28, a team the Viking coach figured he'd have trouble with. Then, on Thursday, the Vikings encountered a stubborn Ecorse and had to pull out a 65-46 victory, sending in the junior varsity who staged a late rally to escape the upset-minded Red Raiders.

"I figured Willow Run was going to give us a lot of problems," said Hotchkiss after the game. "But that didn't happen. Then, Ecorse, a team that didn't show much in their earlier outings, played a respectable game against us."

Inkster led the Flyers 21-4 after the first eight minutes, and for all purposes the outcome of the game was never in doubt after the period. With Hotchkiss emptying the bench early, all of his players managed to get into the scoring column. Angie Thomas, who had 16 points and seven rebounds, led all scorers, while Latanya McMillan, who scored nine points in the first period, ended with 15.

Despite trailing 31-14 at the half, Ecorse refused to quit and came back to narrow the margin to nine before losing a 65-46 SAC decision. One of the reasons why the Red Raiders stayed in the game was the outstanding performance by guard, Millie Toledo, who scored a game-and career-high 34 points.

"We just couldn't stop her (Toledo)," Hotchkiss said. "Everything she tossed up there appeared to go in."

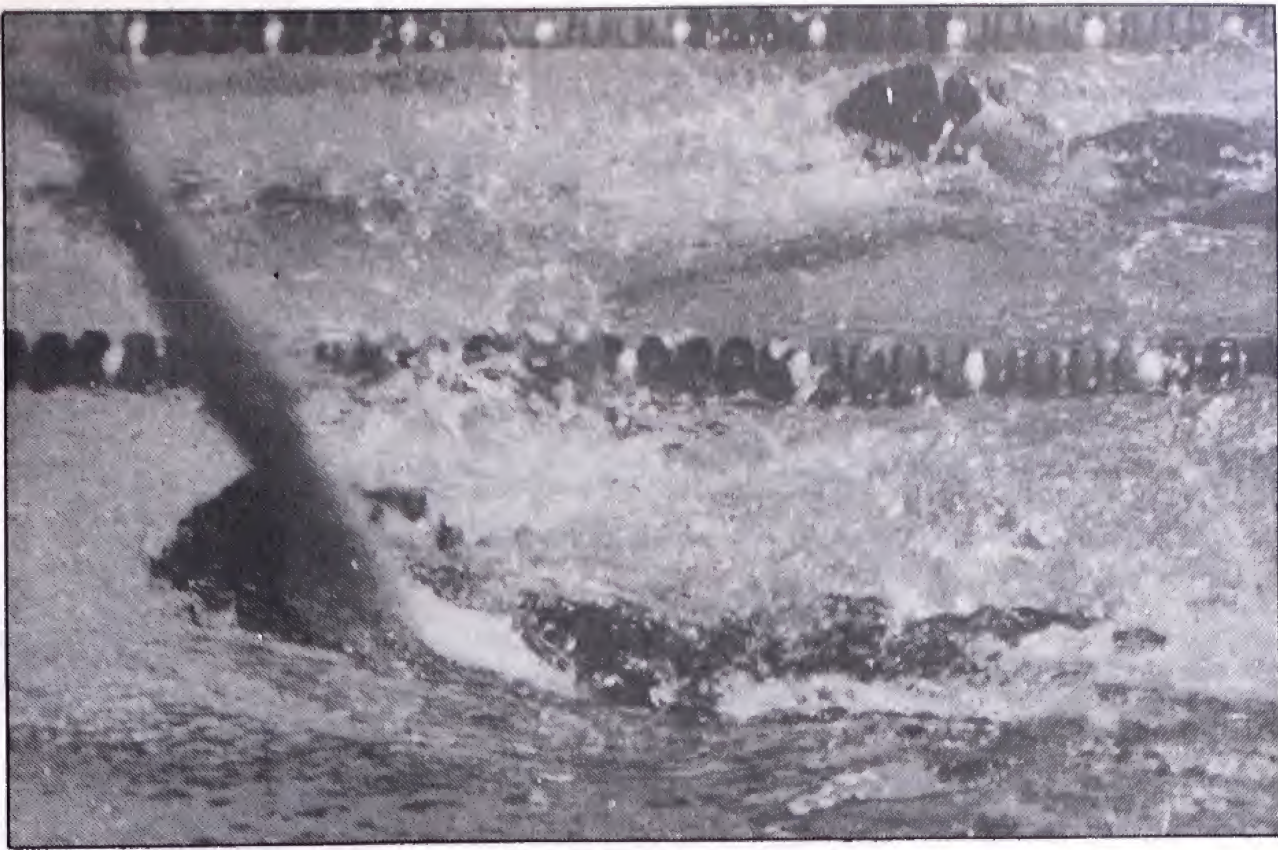

Hotchkiss said he had to insert three reserve players into the lineup to bring his team to life. Shonette LaMarr, Chetrice Lewis, and Camiyah Johnson managed to turn the tide for the Vikings. LaMar finished with nine points, five assists, six steals and four rebounds during her brief tour of action in the fourth quarter.

The Vikings are now 4-2 in the conference and 8-4 overall. They must find a way to stop Oak Park and River Rouge the second time around if they want anything to say about the 1988 championship.

Attention area coaches

Belleville High is in the market for two gymnastics coaches for their varsity and junior varsity teams.

Coaches who believe they have the qualifications to lead the Tigers to the 1988-89 Wol-

Two-event winner Jenny Snure(above) played a key role in Belleville's 112-56 victory over Monroe Thursday night as she swims to a victory in the 200-yard individual medley. Snure also struck gold for her 1:18.42 performance in the 100-yard breaststroke event. Robichaud best may not be good enough for title

The 1988 Robichaud High cross country team may just be the best team of the past decade for Coach Jim Hadley.

But the Bulldogs' best may not be good enough to capture the conference title.

Highland Park is the title favorite.

Despite an enviable 6-1 Suburban Athletic Conference cross country record, Robichaud and Hadley find that they are running an uphill battle to catch league-leading Highland Park.

The Bulldogs, nailing down the first and second finishes thanks to Bill Orsetti and Frank Hayes, eked out a narrow 30-26 victory over River Rouge last week to remain in the chase for the Suburban Athletic Conference championship.

"But we still have to improve if we want to contend for the title," Hadley commented. The championship will be decided later this month. "We got to continue to improve our times if we are to challenge Highland Park and the rest for the title this year," Hadley said. "We can't afford a letdown from any of our runners."

Orsetti set the pace for the Bulldogs as he covered the 5,000 kilometer course in 18:29, leading teammate Hayes to the wire. Hayes had the second best time against Rouge.

Robichaud's next runner, Phil Tachar, turned up sixth, touring the course in 20:13. The Bulldogs also received an eighth and ninth place finishes from Francis Curto and Rob Patrick, respectively.

Tigers

Cooper had the best 200-yard medley relay team in the meet as Adkins, Jennifer Caldwell, Kristin Curtis and Michele Nurnberger combined on a 2:15.83 performance.

Belleville was also to host the Western Wayne Swimming & Diving Invitational over the weekend. Five teams had accepted the invitation to compete including Plymouth Salem, Livonia Churchill, Franklin, Dearborn Fordson, and Westland John Glenn.

Last night, the Tigers swam out of the conference rival, Ypsilanti.

Trapped!

With Wayne Memorial's defense forging a wall, Belleville guard Christine Garrett (white jersey) finds herself trapped and looking for a key to escape her predicament. Garrett and her teammates had a rough time and lost to the Zebras, but they bounced back to win two games last week and evened their Wolverine 'A' Conference record at 3-3. The story is on Page B-2)

Let's get the Inkster-Oak Park debacle out of the way before we look at the highlights - and there were many - of the Robichaud triumph over Willow Run.

The bottom line for the Vikings: they just couldn't stop Terry Smith, the speedy Redskin who carried the ball a mere seven times and piled up 245 yards including touchdown runs of 65, 70, 35 and 75. All in the first half. Oak Park also got a 50-yard TD run out of tailback Clarence Ross.

Now back to the Robichaud game.

The Bulldogs weren't taking any chances on this one. With soph tailback Tyrone Wheatley at the tailback position, Robichaud struck quickly. Wheatley scored one of two Robichaud first-quarter TDs on a 20-yarder that was pulled off on an option. He then went on to score another touchdown, a 43-yarder in the second quarter.

An Eric Thomas-to-split end Michael Hart pass that covered 57 yards accounted for the Bulldogs' second TD. When Wheatley flew past the flyers or the two-point conversion, the hosts had a 14-0 lead.

In an incredible second quarter, nothing went right for the Flyers and everything came up smelling title for the defending co-champs. Thomas and Hart teamed up on a 46-yard strike early in the second stanza and Wheatley chipped in the two-point conversion.

After the ensuing kickoff, the Flyers fumbled in their series on their own five-yard line and Robichaud's Toby Griffin scooped up the ball and ran it into the end zone. A Thomas-to-Michael Aaron pass was good for the conversion. Then, Gary Johnson, got into the scoring act for the champs. He plunged in from the one and fullback Carl Brown converted.

Before the half ended, James Gee tallied from the one, with Thomas converting.

The initial half ended with Robichaud boasting an insurmountable 52-0 lead.

Willow Run averted the shutout in the third quarter as quarterback Terrell Cochran hooked up with Kevin Scott on a 4-yard TD pass. Cochran ran in the two-pointer.

On the ensuing kickoff, the ball landed in Hart's hands and he waltzed 90 yards for the Bulldogs' finale touch down of the game. Gee got to convert.

Thomas had his best day of the year as the senior QB connected on two of four passes for 103 yards. Wheatley rushed for 203 on eight tries plus those two TDs, and Brown chipped in 67 yards with his five attempts.

Yauck praised his entire defensive team for a superlative effort. The linebackers corps, namely, Johnson, Tobin and Tim Parker stood out again. Tackles Ernie Baskins and Carl Selman also earned praise.

"And our offensive line really opened up the holes. I hope they realize that it isn't going to be easy for them at Inkster this week."

As you said, coach: "Inkster is never a pushover when you two meet."

on 24 carries. He also had two TDs. Janack chipped in 75 yards for his two tries and a touchdown while Bingham wound up with 34 yards on four rushes and one TD.

Ison connected on five of 14 passes and finished with 94 yards and a TD.

"It was definitely our best offensive effort of the year," McCarney reiterated. "We have to keep this momentum going if we are to post a winning season."

The boys also will be heading for Willow Metro Park on Saturday but will find the going rough. Monroe, undefeated and state-ranked, is considered the overwhelming favorite to win the conference title this year.

Happy hauntings: Halloween houses frightfully delightful

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

We all enjoy a good scare now and then. But it's especially delightful to be frightful at Halloween.

Haunted houses throughout the area are designed to fulfill that need for a scare, a jolt and a scream or two.

Unlike haunted houses in the movies, however, these haunted houses don't just happen. They are the result of a great deal of planning and money to make them a frightening success.

David Carrick, of Wayne, has planned many haunted houses in his day. He is partly responsible for the haunted Palace Theater, in Wayne.

"We started six weeks ago getting ready for this," Carrick said.

At first, Carrick and his volunteers worked six hours per day to prepare. The week prior to opening night, however, they worked 16 hours per day.

It takes that much time, Carrick said, to put all the pieces together. From laying out the haunted house and setting up props to rehearsing the monsters, everything must be planned carefully.

All the hard work will be worth it, however, as the haunted theater usually attracts crowds from Flint and even Toledo. The theater is also expected to generate nearly $25,000 for the Palace Theater Co., of which members are working to restore the old Wayne Theater, on Michigan Avenue.

Jan Lockman, organizer of the Wayne-Westland YMCA haunted house, said the event there is also very profitable. An expected $10,000 will be generated to purchase new equipment for the YMCA.

While the haunted affairs will net a lot of money for these organizations, it is also an expensive undertaking.

Carrick said his group was able to save money by recruiting help from the Detroit Science Center.

"They lent us some of the more expensive equipment," Carrick said.

Lockman raids garage and yard sales for haunted house goodies throughout the year.

"If you're a wise shopper, you can do it for not a lot of money," Lockman said. "The masks and the lighting are the most expensive."

Lockman added that most other props can be found around the house.

A great amount of thought also goes into making the haunted house experience a fun one for everybody. Groups are encouraged to attend. But, Carrick said, he only allows four people to tour the haunted theater at the same time.

Although some handicapped individuals are able to go through the haunted houses, most houses are not wheelchair-accessible.

Carrick doesn't recommend that anyone younger than 6 years of age go through the haunted theater, although Lockman leaves that decision to parents.

For those youngsters who want to see the haunted house but who are easily frightened, many organizations, including the YMCA and the theater, are planning Friendly Monster Day. During that time, the lights will be left on and the monsters will be a bit less "monstrous."

The YMCA Friendly Monster time is from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Oct. 29. A similar activity is planned at the haunted theater Halloween night.

Candy scanners will also be available at the theater Halloween night.

MARCUS LOWE OF Inkster, a 1988 graduate of John Glenn High School, has been added to the roster of the Madonna College basketball team. Lowe, a 6-foot-1-inch player, averaged 14.8 points and 9.2 rebounds per game during his senior year at John Glenn.

John Glenn varsity basketball coach Bob Killingback, said Lowe is an "exciting player to watch."

"He's a good solid player with outstanding athletic abilities who will do well at this level. Lowe was one of our best players," Killingback said.

Lowe plans to study business at Madonna.

LORI GRAHAM OF Westland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Graham, was recently selected as a 1988 High School Academic All American. She was one of five young women and one of 140 in the United States named to the honor. The award is based on her academic performance and her swimming accomplishments. She has been a member of the Wayne Recreation Dolphin Swim Club for eight years and was a member of the Wayne Memorial High School swim team for three years. She attained a 3.9 grade-point average while at the school. She also served as president of Students Against Driving Drunk, vice president of the National Honor Society, secretary of the student senate and a member of the Timers Club, Key Club, French and Ski clubs.

Presently, she is attending Eastern Michigan University.

ROLLER SKATING LESSONS, sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department in cooperation with Skatin' Station, will be offered through October and November. Cherokee gets a new baby sister

For those of you who contemplate getting a second or even third dog, this is to show you we practice what we preach. Multiple dog ownership is fun, rewarding and company for your other dog and less work - really - than single-dog ownership.

I won't go on too much further on this since the subject has been covered previously in this column.

This past weekend, we purchased a second puppy. During the past year and one-half, we lost all of our three grown dogs. They had reached the maximum age, I assume, for their breeds, and they will never be forgotten.

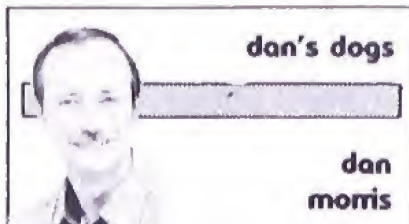

As a matter of fact, we will catch ourselves referring to one or another by the name of a deceased pet we still think of and miss terribly.

Anyway, off we drove to check out the puppies in a 10-week-old litter. We already had Cherokee, our year-old male pup, so the choice for a second puppy had to be female.

Remember the combination: two females; one male and one female; one male and two females; but never two males in the house living together. It just doesn't work out, as they will fight for superiority over the other, and they don't just fight one time, either.

So, we "oohed" and "aahed" over the female puppies. As is the case with anyone shopping for a puppy, the pups sell themselves just by bouncing over toward the shopper and snuggling around the ankles of the people there to "choose." The breeder gave our particular "choice" a quick bath before placing her in our arms and filling out the papers. Everything in order, off we drove.

My main concern was our male, Cherokee. Cherokee simply doesn't like other dogs unless they are in his own household. He got along fine with the other dogs we once had, and he is friendly toward all people. But, as long as it has fur and four feet, he is not friendly and doesn't care who knows it.

This peculiarity is not considered a "flaw" but just a "quirk" in his otherwise solid temperament. Still, it had to be controlled.

When we introduced the new puppy to Cherokee, we had to take precautions. This is good for all of you to follow when you bring home another puppy.

First, we put the leash on Cherokee, and he was placed in a sit position. The puppy was carried over to him and petted by one of us. After doing so, we allowed Cherokee to smell our hand to familiarize him with the new scent coming into "his" home.

Gradually, we put the pup on the ground and allowed Cherokee to check her out slowly and cautiously, until it was considered safe to unsnap him. At first, Cherokee looked as if we would really be in for it, knowing how he felt about other animals. Slowly but surely, he allowed her to rub against his legs and sniff at him.

Cheyenne used every feminine wile known - or, perhaps, unknown - to man and quickly solved a potentially uneasy situation. I wonder if mankind, watching animals in action, could learn something about getting along with everyone?

NAMES PEOPLE PLAY

If your name were Ronald Reagan, Bob Hope or Albert Einstein, would life be full of trouble, headaches and lots of explaining? Or would the namesake prove to make life more interesting?

We asked area residents who make their claim to fame with the name of a famous person—Ted Turner, Bob Hope and Robert Wagner—just that this week. These individuals said their names, indeed, spur a ton of laughs and smiles. But problems? Not really, they said. (See story below)

ROBERT WAGNER, of Westland, handles lots of money.

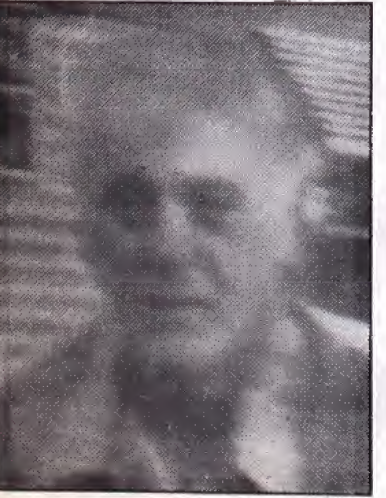

BOB HOPE, of Canton, is performing for baseball troops.

TED TURNER, of Romulus, enjoys his low-key lifestyle.

GENERAL LANEY fights for gun rights.

TOM JONES, of Wayne, yodels but is never found singing.

The name game is a cycle for parents and teachers

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Just as fashion changes from one season to the next, so do the names we give our children.

Gone are the days of girls named Sunshine and Starlight and boys named Ringo and Moondoggie.

Today, it is a return to the more traditional names.

Kathy Napolitano, a nurse in the maternity unit at Annapolis Hospital, in Wayne, said people chose names in cycles.

"Some names are really popular for a while, and, then, they gradually fade out," Napolitano said.

John Martin, principal at Wildwood Elementary School, in Westland, said popular, common names were once "in." Today, however, parents are selecting names from a diverse list.

Two trends which Napolitano has noticed recently is a return to more "country" or very traditional names—Elizabeth and Katherine. She also noticed that more parents are naming sons after their fathers.

"People really got away from that for a while, but, now, you see more of it," she said.

Members of various ethnic groups are also more likely to give their child a name which reflects ethnic heritage more often today than ever before.

It's easy to tell from most school rosters and hospital records that Jessica, Heather, Ashley, Ryan and Jason were the names of the early 1980s.

Napolitano remembers, three years ago, when babies were commonly given those names. Of course, those names have not disappeared from maternity units altogether, but, Napolitano said, they aren't seen with the same kind of frequency.

Names Martin is seeing in the new crop of kindergartners also reflect names that were popular five years ago.

"We have several Stevens and Jeffreys," Martin said.

Some less common names in that class include Samantha, Jeremiah, Casey and, yes, even Melvin.

Last year, Martin said, he had two students with the same first, middle and last names. The first name was Nicholas, another common name from the earlier part of this decade.

According to lists of the "most popular" names in The Guinness Book of Names, there are a few names which have withstood the test of time.

William, John, Charles, James and Robert were among the top 10 names in 1875. They remained high on the list through 1984.

The story is somewhat different for girls. Mary, Elizabeth, Ann, Sarah, Margaret and Susan were the most common names for girls in 1700. Those names remain in the most popular list, but they are now much further down the list.

By 1985, names such as Claire, Emma, Jennifer, Natalie, Jessica and Katie had become popular.

In the late 1800s, girls were named Lizzie, Ethel, Fanny and Eleanor. In 1925, they were Joyce, Eileen, Olive, Winifred and Constance. By the 1950s, Jacqueline, Rosemary, Agnes, Hilary and Maureen were popular.

By the 1970s, Americans saw the introduction of such trendy girls names as Zoe, Gillian, Lyndsey, Haley, Dawn and Wendy.

For boys, the trend is much less obvious. The most apparent difference is between the 1970s and the 1980s. The traditional Michael, Steven, Nicholas and James names were changed—or at least joined—with Zachary, Travis, Brandon, Chad, Jared and Ryan.

Today, nurses, doctors and school teachers should not be shocked or surprised by any name that crosses their desk.

See NAMES, page C-5

Famous names bring smiles, laughs — few problems

Plenty of Ronald Reagans can found living in the area. A couple of George Burns can be found residing among us, as well. It's no secret that there are dozens of area individuals who have the same name as that of a noted celebrity of person from the history books.

But what affect does such a name have on their lives and how often does such a name spur laughs and ridicule? We decided to find out.

Robert Wagner of Westland

Robert Wagner, of Westland, is a devoted husband and a devoted city official. He doesn't have a lot of money of his own—unlike his Hollywood counterpart and star of Hart to Hart.

But, as purchasing agent for the city of Westland, he does deal with a considerable amount of money each day.

And, while the Robert Wagner, of Westland, does not picture himself on the silver screen, he admits that it would be exciting to swap places with his Hollywood "namesake."

Wagner isn't really named after anyone. Robert is a common name, as is Wagner. In other words, chances are slim that the two are related.

Is he often teased about his name? Wagner said he is regularly mistaken for the celebrity, but there are some jokes thrown around.

"Sometimes, on the phone, people will kid around about it. But, when they see me, they usually figure it out," Wagner said.

Wagner's celebrity name-sharer is not really a favorite of his, although he does watch some older movies.

"We just watched How to Catch A Thief the other night, and he was pretty good in that," Wagner said.

Would the city official trade places with the celebrity?

"I'll swap with him anytime," Wagner said, jokingly.

Ted Turner of Romulus

Would the real Ted Turner please stand up?

OK, so there are two of them to be known. First, there's the multi-millionaire Ted Turner, 50, president of Turner Broadcasting, president of the Atlanta Braves baseball team and the Atlanta Hawks basketball team.

Then, there's the local Ted Turner, 42, of Romulus, welder-repairman at the Ford Motor Co. Woodhaven stamping plant, baseball fan and former military medic in Vietnam.

Given the name Ted Turner, both men have some similarities—yet many differences.

The first difference, believe it or not, is the name. Ted Turner, the multi-millionaire, was actually given the name Robert Edward Turner III, while his counterpart, of Romulus, was named Teddy Turner.

The next difference is that the Turner Broadcasting chairman is a yachtsman and former winner of the America's Cup of 1977. The local Turner has yet to float a boat.

The amazing similarity between the two is in their education. The Braves and Hawks owner is a graduate of Brown University. The local Turner was a student at a school in Brown County, Ohio. To be precise, the school was in the city of Georgetown.

"The name might help a little because people will remember who I am. But I've never been mistaken for the other Ted Turner. I don't even resemble him at all," Turner said. "Different people ask if I'm related. There's not much talk about it though."

Tom Jones of Wayne

Of course, we all know Tom Jones. He is the man who has lived on Winifred Street, in Wayne, for more than 30 years.

He is the one who worked for General Motors for 30 years, before taking advantage of early retirement.

Then there is the famous Tom Jones. He is known around the world.

"That name has plagued me ever since the singer came out," Jones, of Wayne, said.

"He might be a sex symbol, but I'm better looking and more mature than he is," Jones said. "And I tell everyone I'm the Tom Jones who yodels. The other guy sings."

"The only difference is he makes more money than me," Jones continued.

Jones believes he may even be related to the big-time celebrity, whose name frequently appears on the marquee of famous Las Vegas casinos.

"My mother is from England, and my father is from Wales. Tom Jones is originally from the same small town in Wales that my father was born in," Jones said.

Bob Hope of Canton Township

He has entertained troops around the world. He is a multi-millionaire. He and fellow-crooner Bing Crosby were cronies. He's a national treasure. Thanks for the Memories is his song.

Who is he? Bob Hope, of course, and he can be found most days behind the counter at Canton Softball Center, on Michigan Avenue.

Canton Softball Center? Have hard times come for Hope? Has the entertainer-turned-real-estate-magnate lost his allure to such beauties as Loni Anderson, Brooke Shields and Raquel Welch?

No—although Bob Hope can, indeed, be found right here in western Wayne County—he is not the same Bob Hope who dresses up like Santa Claus each year on national television.

This Bob Hope is assistant director of the softball program at Canton Softball Center and director of the indoor soccer program there. This Hope and the other Hope share only a name.

"The problem that comes up is when people don't say anything," said Hope, who is accustomed to stares and smirks when he pronounces his name. "The reactions are the funniest part. You get a double look, a continuous smile or the obvious, 'you're kidding'."

The most-asked question is: "Why did your parents name you Bob?" The answer, Hope said, is simple. His father's name is Robert.

"Like father, like son."

Gen. Laney of Inkster

"General Laney is waiting on the telephone to talk to you," the receptionist at the desk proclaims.

All eyes in the room suddenly light up.

"A general? From the Pentagon? Wow!"

But this general isn't really affiliated with the military.

"I don't know why they gave me the name general," said Laney, a professional photographer from Inkster. "My mother says that it was my grandmother who came up with the name."

"I think there was a Civil War general by that name, and grandmother was very much impressed by it, so she tacked it on to me. And I have lived with it for the past 43 years."

Laney admits that being called a general is, sometimes, advantageous. One such instance is when making reservations for dinner or at a hotel.

Born and raised in Inkster, Laney has been active in local politics. He is also a member of the American Rifle Association and chairs the local chapter of the group. A strong advocate of the Fourth Amendment of the Constitution, he has come out against any groups or groups who would infringe on the right of citizens to bear arms and possess guns.

"It is an infringement on our rights," Laney said. "The Constitution clearly gives us that right. And I would fight anyone who would attempt to take it away from the people."

Laney is definitely a general with a cause.

SPECIAL HONORS

Dorothy Wade

Dorothy Wade

The executive director, the Rev. Gleo T. Wade, and staff of the Beams of Heaven Funeral Home, in Inkster, announce the licensure of Dorothy Louise Wade.

Wade, the wife of the Rev. G.T. Wade, completed her pre-professional studies at Wayne County Community College, in Detroit, in 1987. She then attended Wayne State University, where she completed the mortuary science program requirements in May.

Wade completed the National Examination for Funeral Service May 21 and the state oral-written exam Sept. 28. Aside from the responsibilities of wife and mother of one child, Martina, being a member of the Ministers Wives group of Unity Baptist Church and a teacher's aide at St. Mary's school, in Redford, Wade will assume some administrative responsibilities, as well as directing funeral service.

JUST MARRIED

Kuchta - Ley

Shelby J. Kuchta, of Ypsilanti, and Thomas M. Ley, of Ypsilanti, were united in marriage Aug. 27 in an evening ceremony at the Mill Race Historical Village, in Northville. The Rev. Martin Ankrum officiated during the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cundiff, of Belleville. She is a 1982 graduate of Belleville High School and works as a manager of the McDonald's restaurant, in Canton Township.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ley, of Canton. He is a 1983 graduate of Belleville High School and will graduate in April with a bachelor's degree in business administration. He works as a manager of the McDonald's restaurant, in Canton Township.

The outdoor wedding was accented with a gazebo. Music was provided by Kevin Frawley, on keyboards, and Dorothy Carpenter.

The bride wore an ivory, lace gown, with beaded Venice motif and trim, chapel-length train, low V-shaped back and Sabrina neckline.

She wore a headpiece of pink, silk roses and baby's breath, in a French braid. She carried a bouquet of ivory carnations, roses and

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Ley stephanotis, pink gardenias and ivy.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Maid of honor for the occasion was Dove Smith, a friend of the bride, of Canton. Bridesmaids included Janet Soja, best man's fiancée, of Belleville; Melinda Johnson, a friend, of Ypsilanti, and Pat Murphy, a friend, of Canton.

Junior bride and groom were Melissa Murphy, 8, the daughter of Patricia Murphy; and David Cundiff, 11, the brother of the bride.

Best man was Eric Ley, the groom's brother, of Canton. Groomsmen included Robert Ley Jr., groom's brother, of Canton; Todd Barnaby, a friend, of Ann Arbor; and William Spurlin, a friend, of Canton. Ushers included Dale Cundiff, bride's brother, of Belleville; and Randall Ley, groom's brother, of Canton.

A reception followed the ceremony at Neptune's, on Haggerty Road, Belleville.

SOON TO WED

Mackensen - Clark

Clark - Mackensen

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, of Hannan Road, Wayne, announce the engagement of their daughter, Gail Susan, to Norman Robert Mackensen, of Cypress, Calif. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mackensen, of Hendersonville, N.C.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, where she obtained a bachelor's degree in business administration. She works as Memorex, Telex, in Marina Del Rey, Calif.

The groom-to-be has a bachelor of arts degree in economics and a master of science degree in telecommunications. He works at Douglas Aircraft, in Long Beach, Calif.

The two are planning a Dec. 29 wedding at the Viscount Hotel, Long Beach, Calif.

SPLIT YOUR VACATION

How about going on a "50/50" vacation. That means half in the U.S. and half in Mexico! You can do it if you visit El Paso, Texas, since Juarez is just across the border.

El Paso offers a wide variety of pleasures. Sunland Park Race Track is well known to horse racing fans and the Sun Bowl Stadium attracts football lovers from all over. People who like historic buildings can visit the missions of San Elizario (1598);
Socorro, the oldest continuously active parish in the United States and Ysleta (1681). An aerial tramway to the top of Ranger Park
(5,632 feet) affords a 7,000 square mile view of 3 states and 2 countries.

Juarez, Mexico boasts the Plaza Monumental, the 4th largest bullring in the world, seating 17,000 people. And there's another track here with year
'round dog racing and horse racing in season. People with gold fever will want to visit Guadalupe
Mission in Juarez. This mission, according to legend, allows the entrance to the Lost Padre Mine to be seen when the sun is at a certain angle.

Super-saver fares to El Paso start as low as $284.

Apples are the reason for autumn

just desserts

sue willett

All I want to know is what happened to summer? And, who took Indian summer, for that matter?

It's cold out there, and quite frankly, while this weather is pleasant, indeed, the chill in the air reminds me, for one, that winter is coming and those way-below-zero temperatures will soon be a fact of life. I don't like it. But then, I didn't like it when it was 100 degrees or so outside either, so I guess there's just no pleasing me.

At any rate, the fall weather is good for those of us who really enjoy taking out our frustrations on a good recipe and find relief from daily stress in the kitchen. As I've confessed repeatedly and to anyone who will listen, my greatest coping mechanism is the cookie sheet.

And, since it is fall and time for the annual visit to the cider mill to pick apples, or just to the grocery store to buy some of the medicinal wonders, I was reminded of a terrific recipe that combines both cookies and the fruit of choice.

These cookies are great with milk or (no laughing) lemonade. They really are and they make a great snack. I used to make them frequently but doubled the recipe as three dozen lasted about 10 minutes or so.

These really are tasty and kids love them.

Fresh apple cookies

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup butter, softened
1 1/3 cup (packed) brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground cloves
1/2 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg
1 egg, beaten
1/4 cup apple juice or milk
1 cup chopped, peeled apples
1/2 to 1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup chopped raisins
Vanilla glaze (recipe follows)

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Sift flour and baking soda together in a medium mixing bowl.

In a large bowl, cream together the butter, brown sugar, salt, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg and egg. Add half the flour to the butter mixture and blend well. Mix in half the juice or milk.

Add the apples, nuts and raisins to the remaining flour. Add this apple mixture to the butter mixture. Stir in the remaining juice or milk.

Drop the dough by teaspoonsful onto greased cookie sheets. Bake for 8 to 9 minutes, or until cookies are firm. While cookies are hot, spread with vanilla glaze.

Makes about 3 dozen cookies.

Vanilla glaze

1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon butter, softened
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 tablespoon light cream or milk

Blend all ingredients together in mixing bowl and beat until very smooth and of a glaze consistency.

Ah, that's scar-r-r-r-y!

The thoughts of planning a Halloween party this year with no idea of what to serve. The entire idea is frightful!

But, alas, in come the ghost-busters to the rescue of all Halloween-party planners. These ghost-busters may also be known for wearing different hats — those of a baker and a cake decorator.

Planning a Halloween party — for kids or adults — need not cause anxiety for the host, according to Joe Ventura, owner of the Wayne Italian Bakery and Deli, on Michigan Avenue. Wayne. Ventura and his cake-decorating aide know the perfect solution to the party-planning problems.

"Theme the event and serve treats tailored to the audience."

Yes, it's that simple.

"You can't go wrong with cookies for kids, and they like that," Ventura said. "You want to keep everything hard, too. When you get into the soft stuff, you are in for a mess."

Easy sugar cookies

1 package Jiffy pie crust mix
1/2 cup confectioner's sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon extract

In large bowl, combine all ingredients and mix well. Chill 1 hour. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. On lightly floured surface, roll dough out to 1/8-inch thick. Cut dough in desired shapes with cookie cutters and place on ungreased baking sheets. Bake 8 to 10 minutes or until golden brown. Cool and frost with Jiffy white frosting mix and decorate. Yields about 2 dozen cookies.

Candy orange slice cake

1 cup butter, softened
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
1/2 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon soda
3 3/4 cups all-purpose flour, divided
Pinch of salt
1 pound pitted dates, chopped
1 pound orange slice candy, finely chopped
2 cups chopped nuts
1 (4-ounce) package shredded coconut

Cream butter and sugar together until light. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Combine buttermilk and soda. Set aside.

Combine 3 1/2 cups flour and salt. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture, alternately with buttermilk, beating well. Dust dates and orange candy with remaining 1/4 cup flour. Stir into mixture. Add nuts and coconut to batter.

Pour batter into a greased 10-inch tub pan. Bake at 250 degrees for 2 1/2 to 3 hours or until cake tests done. Pour glaze (recipe follows) over hot cake. Let cake stand overnight in pan.

For the glaze:

1 (6-ounce) can frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
2 cups powdered sugar

Combine both ingredients, mixing well. Pour over hot cake.

Cranberry coffee cake

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
5 tablespoons butter
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 cups cranberries, coarsely chopped
1/4 cup flour
1/2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons butter

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and 1/2 cup sugar together. Cut in 5 tablespoons butter until crumbly. Mix together beaten egg and milk. Add to flour mixture.

Stir slowly to mix. Beat until blended well. Spread batter evenly into a buttered 8-by-8-by-2-inch baking dish. (Batter will be heavy.) Sprinkle cranberries evenly over top.

For a topping, mix 1/4 cup flour and 1/2 cup sugar together. Cut in 3 tablespoons butter. Sprinkle over cranberries. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes.

Carrot casserole

3 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter, melted
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 cup milk
2 cups mashed cooked carrots

Mix first 7 ingredients together. Combine milk and carrots. Add to first mixture, mixing well. Pour mixture into a lightly greased casserole. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Halloween devils food cake

2/3 cup shortening, softened
1 2/3 cup sugar
3 eggs
2/3 cup cocoa
1 1/3 cups cold water
2 cups sifted flour
1/3 teaspoon baking powder
1 1/4 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla, if desired

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour two 9-inch round cake pans or one 13-by-9-by-2 oblong pan. In medium mixing bowl, beat shortening and sugar together until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs.

In separate bowl, blend together cocoa and cold water. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Stir flour mixture into shortening alternately with cocoa-water mixture. Add vanilla, if desired. Pour batter into prepared pans. Bake, in round cake pans, at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes or, in oblong cake pan, for 35 to 45 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool.

Variation: Spread white frosting between cake layers to spice up this recipe.

Pumpkin bar cookies

4 eggs
1 cup salad oil
2 cups sugar
1 cup pumpkin
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients and pour into a large greased and floured cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

For the frosting:

3 ounces cream cheese
6 tablespoons margarine
3/4 pound powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon milk, if needed

Combine ingredients and spread over cooled pumpkin bars.

Popcorn balls

1 cup dark corn syrup
1 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup water
1 teaspoon white vinegar
2 tablespoons butter
4 quarts unsalted popped popcorn

Mix together corn syrup, sugar, water and vinegar in a saucepan. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until temperature reaches 260 degrees — hard ball stage.

To test, drop a few drops of syrup in a cup of cold water.

Remove from heat. Quickly stir in butter. Slowly pour over popped corn in a bowl, mixing well. Grease your hands and shape into balls, using as little pressure as possible. Form into balls while hot but not burning.

Pumpkin cake

1 yellow cake mix (reserve 3/4 cup)
1/4 pound melted margarine
1 egg
1 large can pumpkin
1 1/4 teaspoons cinnamon
3 slightly beaten eggs
Pinch of salt
1/2 cup brown sugar
2/3 cup evaporated milk
1/4 cup white sugar
1/2 cup white sugar
1/2 stick margarine (room temperature)
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Mix part of yellow cake mix, margarine and egg. Place in well-greased-and-floured, 9-by-13-inch dish. Blend pumpkin, cinnamon, 3 eggs, salt, brown sugar, evaporated milk and 1/4 cup white sugar well and pour over cake mix.

Combine remaining cake mix, 1/2 cup sugar and margarine (mixture will be crumbly). Sprinkle over pumpkin mix. Sprinkle chopped nuts over crumbly topping. Bake at 350 degrees for 55 minutes.

Names

After all, Frank Zappa named his child Moon Unit, and Cher named her daughter Chastity.

The effect names have on children

Will a name associated with a negative stereotype doom you to being unpopular, the object of pity or the subject of ridicule? Probably not, if you have a good self-concept.

Names probably do have an effect on the individual, according to Roger Dallwig, director of His Place/Her Place Counseling Center. However, the degree of influence depends on the self-esteem of the individual.

"I'm sure a man with a very macho-sounding name, would be influenced to behave in a macho manner," Dallwig said, "but that is not always true."

The psychologist related that he had been told of a big, burly man named Percy - a name generally thought to be associated with weakness and passivity - who never experienced negative reactions to his name. Perhaps, he said, the man's appearance intimidated those who may have wanted to taunt him, or Percy's appearance may have cancelled out the stereotype in people's minds.

However, the psychologist acknowledged that some studies have shown that children with "good" names fare better on written papers - often with the same content - than those with "bad" names. For example, a David or Jennifer would be graded higher than a Elmer or Bertha on a similar assignment.

Informal studies also have revealed that there are a proportionately higher number of people with undesirable names who suffer from alcoholism and substance abuse. Although no conclusions have been developed from the informal studies, there is speculation that the combination of low self-esteem plus the negative reaction to their names contributed to their behavioral problems.

Although some studies have shown that children with uncommon or unusual names are less popular than those with more pleasing names, stereotypes do not necessarily cause the problems that are associated with them. For example, parents who give ridiculous names to their children probably contribute more to their child's low self-esteem than the name itself.

Names do carry a message - true, stereotyped or personal meanings - with a suggestion of magic, according to Catherine Cameron, a professor of behavioral science. Parents in English-speaking countries seem reluctant to admit this, but it is common for people in other cultures to name their children after animals, birds or plants which have desirable characteristics.

Parents in our own culture, obviously, believe in some of the "magic" in names when they name their child after a relative, historical or Biblical character whom they wish their child would emulate. Popular choices also are television and film characters - from Shirley for girls born during the Shirley Temple film era to Alexis and Crystal born to modern fans of Dynasty. Parents fall into two categories when naming their children, according to Cameron. Some focus on their own needs in naming the child and the others focus on the children's needs. Parents in the first group usually feel they were deprived as children and they are looking for ways to satisfy their need for love and respect when naming their children. They tend to "label" their children as an act of ownership, Cameron said. Those in the second category would tend to select a name that would have a positive effect on the child and enhance his or her future relationships and life decisions.

Treats

Ventura - who is now displaying an assortment of butter and sugar cookies with orange sprinkles, cupcakes with decorative toppers, pumpkin pies and nut breads for the season of witches and goblins - would never serve one of his famous cannellonis to a group of youngsters. He also might hesitate to churn out cupcakes for an adult costume party.

But, for the classroom Halloween party, cupcakes are ideal, according to Joe's cake decorator. She suggests adding a creme filling to cupcakes, using a pastry bag, or adding Halloween-candy accents to spice up any treat.

Other decorating ideas include sugar cookies coated with a powdered sugar-and-water mixture and painted into a pumpkin face.

Then, again, almost anything colored orange or accented with Halloween figures would fit perfectly with the scary theme of the day, Ventura said.

Consider a few of the recipes below, when planning that Halloween party this year. Amend them, decorate differently or use them to spark other ideas.

Remember, it's not exactly what is served that's important but how it fits with the theme of the party.

Happy hauntings!

Enjoying Good Health

Dr. Hamparian is on staff at Oakwood Hospital and maintains a general dental practice in Dearborn. He teaches head and neck anatomy at Wayne State University's School of Medicine, and is a Fellow, American Association of Hospital Dentists.

MOM'S DIET IS A MAJOR FACTOR IN THE HEALTH OF BABY'S TEETH, GUMS

By Arthur M. Hamparian, D.D.S., M.S.

You are what you eat, so the saying goes. It's also true that your child will become what you eat during your pregnancy.

The building of strong teeth, jaw bones, and gums begins at conception. Careful attention to nutrition and prenatal care while you're pregnant will reflect favorably on your baby.

Of course, there are uncontrollable factors such as heredity, which may influence the development of teeth, but nutrition is something we can control. It can make a significant difference.

CALCIUM IS IMPORTANT

A major building block for teeth and bones is calcium. Dairy products such as milk or cheese are excellent sources of calcium. For those who can't drink milk or are allergic to dairy products, calcium supplements are available in tablet form.

The recommended amount is 1,000 milligrams of calcium per day, which equals three to four eight-ounce glasses of either skim or whole milk. Yogurt, ice cream, and eggs are good sources of calcium as well. If cholesterol is a concern, eat only egg whites.

VITAMIN C FOR STRONG GUMS

Another important building block for the development and maintenance of healthy gums in your unborn child is Vitamin C. Orange, grapefruit, tomato, cranberry juice, and vegetables such as broccoli are some of the best sources of this vitamin. It's essential in building and maintaining gum tissue and connective tissue.

FLUORIDE PREVENTS CAVITIES

Fluoride is still another vital part of prenatal dental care. Most drinking water in this area contains fluoride, but you have to drink six to eight glasses a day to benefit from it. You can take multiple vitamins with fluoride for additional protection. One tablet of .5 milligrams of fluoride is the maximum supplement.

If you drink water without fluoride, which could include bottled or well water, you will need one milligram (two tablets per day).
